"LOVE IN A COTTAGE" FOR DUKE AND DUCHESS DURAZZO

Duchess Durazzo (formerly Elizabeth Frances Hanan) out for a walk with her husband, a young Italian nobleman, from whom she has been estranged. They have now "made up."

It will be literally "love in a cottage" for the Duke and Duchess of Durazzo of Narragansett Pier, who, parted after six months of married life, are now reconciled and very happy, according to the announcement today of Mrs. John H. Hanan, the well known society leader at the Pier.

Over the long distance telephone today Mrs. Hanan, who is the Duchess' sister-in-law, said the blissfully reunited couple had taken a cottage at the famous Rhode Island resort and would remain the rest of the summer. They reached the Pier yesterday and were warmly greeted by their friends, and today when they went to the Casino they were again the centre of felicitations.

Friends of the couple say they are as happy as "two doves" again after the separation which marred the romance of the courtship and wedding of an American woman of wealth to an Italian nobleman. The same friends say they have determined to "let bygones be bygones" and by "forgiving and forgetting" to resume love's harmony just as if the course of their true love had always run smooth.

The Duchess was Miss Elizabeth Frances Hanan, sister of John H. Hanan, millionaire shoe manufacturer. Her husband's full name is Duke Arturo De Majo Durazzo of Italy.

The reports of a reconciliation, confirmed today for the first time, have been frequent since the Duchess on June 6 last gave notice of a discontinuance of her court action seeking an annulment of her marriage to the Duke. Her suit was started on October 7, 1914, and occasioned general surprise. The wedding, which took place February 17, 1914, was a social event.

In her complaint the Duchess alleged that the Duke, in order to obtain her consent to the marriage, "falsely and fraudulently represented to her that he was a respectable, law-abiding and honorable man, and concealed from her his real character." She alleged she had later discovered that he was a fugitive from justice and had been convicted of larceny and sentenced to a prison term in France.

The Duchess is fifty-four and the Duke is forty.

Severe Quake in Canary Islands

By International News Service.

MADRID, July 13.—Violent earthquakes have shaken the Island of Fuerteventura in the Canaries, causing immense damage and some loss of life, according to advices received by the Spanish government today. Hundreds of houses have been destroyed by the tremors, which have been violent during the last twenty-four hours. All the surviving inhabitants have taken refuge in the fields.

NEW WAR CRISIS IN THE BALKANS

DELAY MAY AVERT A CRISIS

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—Although it is admitted that Germany's latest reply on the Lusitania question is unsatisfactory, administration officials were active today in denying there is any sign of a crisis.

It is understood the calling off of Secretary Lansing's visit to Cornish, N. H., to confer with the President is intended to allay public suspense and to show that there is to be no haste. The President does not wish the situation to be regarded as grave.

Word from Cornish, N. H., where President Wilson is at his Summer home, is to the effect that a way has been found for negotiating with Germany before a formal reply to the last Berlin note is made.

PRESIDENT DELAYS RETURN.

President Wilson will not take up the matter with his cabinet before next week. It was learned today that his private car has not yet been ordered to go to Cornish, and it is practically certain that he will not return to Washington before Friday. As Tuesday is the first cabinet meeting date next week, the President will have seven days to consider the German reply before discussing it with his official family.

The judgment of officials who are in the confidence of the administration is that the two governments will deal dispassionately and deliberately with the questions raised in Germany's reply.

Breaking off diplomatic relations is not being considered. The calling of Congress into session would imply the possibility of action. This is not being considered at the present time, either.

On the point of diplomatic rupture, a high official said:

"Breaking off diplomatic relations is inconceivable as a remedy in the way of punishment. In fact it would only be an evasion of the well-considered statement of the President, who, in his note, said to Germany that we would hold her to a strict accountability for infractions of international law resulting in the loss of American lives by reason of German submarine attacks on unarmed merchant vessels.

"It is evident that, if in the middle of an argument, the President should break off diplomatic relations and stop the argument without revealing or putting into practice his strict accountability,' he would lose rather than gain by the negotiations up to date.

DUTY TO MAKE NEW PLEA.

"The obvious duty of the President is again to make an appeal with argument to the German Foreign Office to see international law from our viewpoint, and I think it perfectly safe to predict that that course will be taken.

"The President is reading the reply for himself. The judgment of the world will depend upon the merits of our argument as against the German argument when the next note has been sent to the German Foreign Office. That is the situation today."

According to foreign diplomatic view, the controlling question turns largely on the defensibility or indefensibility of the following paragraph in the President's note of May 13:

American citizens act within their indisputable rights in taking their ships and in traveling wherever their legitimate business

ROUMANIA WARNED BY AUSTRIA

By HERBERT TEMPLE,
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

LONDON, July 13.—While the attention of the military critics centred today on the Arras front, where the Germans have clearly made an important gain and partially upset the offensive campaign of the allies, the diplomatic experts kept close watch on the situation in the Balkans.

Dispatches from the continent, though mutilated by the censors through whose hands they have passed, indicate that Bulgaria's entrance into the war will not be long delayed, and aggressive action by Austria to force the hand of Roumania is likely to bring about an immediate decision by that country.

British diplomatists now see in the Germanic drive through Galicia a campaign which, while wholly successful, gave the Austrians and Germans a hard front to defend, a scheme to influence Roumania.

While that country was expected to join the allies immediately following the action of Italy, the strength of the offensive developed by the Teutons in Galicia has had a deterrent effect.

Whichever way Roumania and Bulgaria "jump," it is apparent that a diplomatic campaign of utmost vigor is being waged at Sofia and Bucharest. A special representative of the British government has been dividing his time between the two capitals, and it is even rumored that whil, Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, was taking a vacation to "rec. his eyes," he visited Bulgaria, Roumania and Greece and conferred with influential officials there.

The situation at Athens is of little interest from a diplomatic standpoint. Greece will preserve her neutrality until Roumania or Bulgaria enters the war. No matter what side they support, Greece will never fight with Germany, according to the political experts.

REPORT AUSTRIA ASKS "SHOW DOWN" FROM ROUMANIA

By FREDERICK WERNER,
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

BERLIN, via Amsterdam, July 13.—While government officials refused to comment today on semi-official reports that Austria had served notice on Roumania that it must consent to the transportation of war munitions and supplies to Turkey as long as it permits war material to cross its territory from Russia to Servia, the prevailing impression is that the Bucharest government will be forced to a "show down."

According to reports, Austria has given Roumania one month in which to decide its future course. All the Germans who are in close touch with the situation in the near East believe that Roumania has permitted its subjects to render all the aid possible to Turkey, thus winking at the violation of its neutrality.

There is no doubt that any action taken against Roumania by Austria will have the backing of the Germans. The Berlin and Vienna foreign offices are working in complete harmony.

88 at 1 O'clock; Today Hottest Day of the Year

This was the hottest day of the year. By 1 o'clock this afternoon the temperature had reached 88, passing the previous record of 87.3 on June 29 last.

Early in the afternoon the weather man, seated in his comfortable perch on top of the Federal building, announced that if the West wind continued the mercury might reach 90. Yet, according to him, the weather is "only seasonable."

Attempt Made to Assassinate Bulgarian King

By International News Service.

BERLIN, July 13.—(By wireless)—A dispatch from Sofia states that an tremendous sensation has been caused there by an attempt to assassinate King Ferdinand of Bulgaria. The men who attempted the assassination were convicted and sentenced to death.

As a result of evidence given at the trial, the authorities have arrested ex-Minister Chenadiew, leader of the Pro-Russian party, and Elena Anastasiow, wife of one of the assasins. They are charged with complicity in the plot to order the King.

Lake Steamer Sunk in Crash

By International News Service.

PORT HURON, Mich., July 13.—The freight steamer Choctaw of the Cleveland Cliffs Iron Company was sunk late yesterday off Presque Isle after a collision with the steamer Wahtondah.

The Wahtondah picked up all of the Choctaw's crew, fifteen men, and brought them into Port Huron this morning.

The Choctaw, a vessel of 3,000 tons, left Cleveland Saturday night for the Soo with a cargo of coal. She was built in 1892.

A heavy fog was over Lake Huron when the Choctaw entered that lake. Charles A. Fox of Mount Clemens, Mich., was the captain.

Big Fair Crowds Have the Best of Weather

SAN FRANCISCO, July 13.—The Exposition throngs are steadily favored with cool, delightful weather conditions. Yesterday was typical of the climatic conditions of midsummer here. The mercury ranged never higher than 62, and at 5 o'clock last night was at 60.

ASSAILANT OF GIRL IS CAPTURED

FRAMINGHAM, July 13.—Disappointed in his attempt to woo Miss Rosie Drinkwater, 15 years old and an attractive brunette, Nick White, a youth of 18, attacked the girl with a razor near her home here today, dangerously wounding her.

The razor cut deep into the girl's left cheek, extending several inches from the corner of her mouth and narrowly missing the jugular vein. At the Framingham Hospital where the girl was hurried in an ambulance, the doctors said she would recover.

White was captured after a three and one-half mile chase through the centre of the town, through woods farmland and swamps. He was locked up on a charge of assault with intent to kill.

According to the police the youth's motive was unrequited love. They said the youth had been an unsuccessful suitor for the girls hand.

The attack took place 150 yards from the girl's home on Fountain street and near the gates of the R. H. Long Harness Company's factory, where the girl was employed. The girl was on her way to work, and the authorities claimed White must have laid in wit for her.

George Johnson and John J. Burke, employed in the factory, saw the girl fall to the street. Both leaped from a window dropping ten feet to the ground, and chased White. After they had run about three miles, they were joined by Carlisle Choate and C. P. Shillaber. Choate secured a shotgun from a farmhouse and fired it over the fugitive's head. White thereupon gave himself up.

At the hospital the girl said White had been "bothering" her a good deal.

"Lately I told him I didn't want to have anything to do with him," she declared.

All that White said was: "She can't fool me."

White will be arraigned in the Framingham District Court tomorrow.

ANTI-THAW ALIENIST IS BADLY TANGLED

NEW YORK, July 13.—The State's case against Harry K. Thaw received a severe blow today when Dr. Austin Flint, alienist and star expert for the State, became badly tangled up on the stand.

Under the merciless cross-examination of Attorney John B. Stanchfield, Dr. Flint contradicted several of his own previous statements.

Several times Flint swore he never said things attributed to him by Stanchfield and was embarrassed when the Thaw lawyer read the identical words from the record of Flint's testimony.

CHANGES TESTIMONY.

Flint, who yesterday said Thaw suffered from constitutional inferiority and then admitted that he did not know what those words meant, today said he did not regard that and paranoia as synonymous.

When confronted with his statement yesterday that the two were synonymous, he said they were "in some cases, but not in others."

"Did you ever before yesterday say that Thaw suffered from constitutional inferiority?" asked Stanchfield.

"No," said Flint. "It is a term that has been in use only about two years."

Stanchfield then produced the report of the Manhattan State Hospital for the Insane, of which Flint was president, which showed that in 1908 fifteen cases of constitutional inferiority were admitted to the asylum.

"Is that true?" he was asked.

"Yes," replied Flint, after squirming around for a few minutes.

Then constitutional inferiority was

NEW GAINS FOR GERMAN ARMY AT SOUCHEZ

By FREDERICK WERNER,
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

BERLIN, July 13.—(By wireless) Further success has been won by the German troops at Souchez and they are advancing on the road to Arras. Today's report from the General Staff states that the Germans have advanced 600 yards across the Souchez cemetery and have captured the cabaret Rouge (Red inn) on the highway between Souchez and Arras.

The battle of Souchez has now been in progress for two days, the Germans making an important gain. That the French are striving desperately to regain their lost ground is apparent from the fact that they made an attack with grenades on the sugar refinery. This attack was repulsed, the Germans report.

In their operations at Souchez the Germans have captured three officers and 215 men.

French attacks during the night in Lorraine forest are reported to have broken down with heavy loss.

The situation in the Eastern and Southeastern theatres is unchanged.

Liberty Bell Is Greeted in Oregon

PENDLETON, Ore., July 13.—A greater part of the population of three Oregon towns and contiguous territory saw the Liberty Bell as it passed through the northeastern part of the State. There was no formal program but thousands of persons crowded about the rolls during its brief stop. At Baker, Governor James Withycombe welcomed the bell on behalf of the State.

MRS. PERCIVAL, BRIDE WHO SUES FOR 'KIDNAPING'

THREE ACCUSED BY BRIDE AS KIDNAPERS

PROVIDENCE, July 13.—The $10,000 damage suit growing out of the alleged kidnaping of Mrs. Carra Briggs Percival, bride of Richard B. Percival of this city, on her wedding night last month when she was taken in an automobile to Boston, has amazed friends in the social circle in which the bride is a leader.

The suit was brought by Mrs. Percival in the Superior Court here. The allegations state that she "suffered great humiliation, embarrassment and a severe nervous shock, through false imprisonment in a Boston hotel on the morning of June 3, only a few hours after her marriage at the home of her parents in this city.

The three defendants in the suit are Burdette White of Providence, a friend of the bride's family; Jesse Drabble of Cranston, husband of a friend of the bride, and Carol Linton of Pawtucket. All three were guests at the wedding. The bride's counsel is former Mayor Patrick J. McCarthy, who announces that the suit "isn't a joke" and is to be pushed to a speedy trial before a jury.

Mrs. Percival's "kidnaping" caused a ripple of excitement in two States. At the request of the Providence authorities, the Boston police made a search for her and found her at the Hotel Thorndike at 5 a. m. They said she had previously telephoned her husband where she was.

The bridegroom was angry and hurried to Boston in an automobile. With him were the bride's mother and brother, Mrs. George Briggs and Raymond L. Briggs of Providence.

The defendants deny the charges against them and say they will defend the suit. Linton declared that he was one of the party in the auto in which the bride was taken to Boston.

"Our idea was to go to Boston and then drive back to Providence to tell the groom where his bride was," said Linton. "The bride seemed very happy on the trip. She stepped into the car of her own free will. When she entered the car she asked: 'Who's in here'?

"Mrs. Drabble answered: 'It's me, Vicky.' The bride replied: 'That's good.'

"When we reached Boston I said to the bride: 'Carra, do you want to go back to Providence?' She told me she was very tired. She said she wanted Margaret Percival, her sister-in-law, to remain with her. She stayed in Boston, and the next morning her husband went there and got her."

Good for 1 One Vote

This Coupon will not be counted unless presented at the World's Series Contest Headquarters, No. 8 Winthrop Square, Boston, or mailed to that address on or before 5 o'clock p. m., July 24, 1915.

HOW TO SEND VOTE COUPONS—At the end of the fourth contest period (series "D") collect all votes of that series, then put all your "Series D" No. 1 coupons together, tie or fasten them in some manner and attach a slip of paper showing the number of "Series D" No. 1" coupons contained in that package. Do the same with "Series 'D' No. 2" coupons, and so on up to and including "Series 'D' No. 7," the last one of that series. Then wrap them all in one bundle and write or stamp on the outside of this bundle your name and address and the number of consecutive sets said to be contained therein. A similar rule applies to the other eight series.

DR. FLINT, STAR EXPERT AGAINST THAW, IS CONFUSED ON STAND

a commonly recognized form of insanity back when Thaw killed White, was it?"

Flint said it was.

WHAT HE MEANT.

"Then why did you never use it before in this case, and why did you say it had been used only two years."

"Well I meant that constitutional inferiority had been in general use only about two years."

In reply to a juror, Flint said that a layman could not detect constitutional inferiority.

Flint admitted that he received $5,315 for his services in the first Thaw trial, and since that time he had received $15 an hour during all Thaw litigation, but he could not approximate the total. He had had no work but the Thaw case for nine years. He admitted that he had consulted Deputy Attorney-General Cook ever since May about the State's case against Thaw. He said Cook and the State's witnesses frequently called at his house.

"Then you have helped direct the State's case?" Stanchfield asked Flint.

Flint said he had.

"If a lawyer spent months working up a case and then took the stand to testify, you would call him unethical, would you not?"

"Yes."

"Then do you not think your conduct unprofessional?"

"No, I am not a lawyer."

INFORMED DR. BAKER.

Flint was forced to admit that Dr. Baker, formerly of Matteawan, one of the alienists who will testify for the State against Thaw, testified before Justice Keogh that he did not know Thaw was a paralytic until Flint showed him.

Flint said that exaggerated age, poor memory and nervousness were not necessarily indications of paranoia. He admitted that if Thaw believed all the stories he heard about White's relations with young girls he was in putting in his will a provision for $7,500 to prosecute White was not paranoiac.

"If White continued to pursue the girl and Thaw killed him, is it not probable that a jury would have acquitted him whether he was found sane or insane?" asked Stanchfield.

"No, because the unwritten law was not in use then," said Flint.

Stanchfield tripped the alienist again. He made him remember the killing of Alfred Lee Richardson by one McFarland in 1869 and the killing of a man in 1859 by General Daniel Sickles under circumstances similar to Thaw's murder of White.

EMOTIONAL INSANITY.

"Is not emotional insanity the defence in those cases?"

"Yes."

"And emotional insanity is the unwritten law and both men were acquitted?" Stanchfield said.

"Are you the worlds greatest living alienist?"

"I never said so, but I do not deny that I am."

Flint was made to tell that he had. Flint was made to tell that he and to other alienists retained by William Travers Jerome swore they found Banker Joseph G. Robin insane, a paranoiac and the jury found him absolutely sane.

Flint admitted that he had requested certain newspapers to publish editorials urging that the State pension Jerome.

Flint admitted that Cook saw Evelyn Nesbit at his house. Cook had told newspaper men that he did not see Mrs. Thaw while she was here and did not know her whereabouts.

"You have seen a great deal of Mrs. Thaw since 1906?"

"Yes. She retained me as an adviser at one time in connection with her proposed annulment suit."

"And you told her to go back to camp when she was here last week?"

"I believe I did."

Stanchfield then handed Flint a picture of Evelyn Thaw and asked if it was a good likeness. The alienist said it was.

"That's all," said Stanchfield and Flint's four hours' of grilling cross-examination was over.

REPEATS FORMER CLAIM.

On re-direct examination Flint said that "In this courtroom Thaw has exhibited no symptome of insanity. But I say he is a hopelessly incurable paranoiac as I always have said. I base my opinion on my knowledge of his life history."

Cook told him to tell briefly on what he based his opinion and Flint launched on a long and technical explanation.

Dr. Osler on Tuberculosis

Sir William Osler, Regius Professor of Medicine at Oxford, says in his "Practice of Medicine" (1903), on page 249: "The healing of pulmonary tuberculosis is shown clinically by the recovery of patients in whose sputa elastic tissue and bacilli have been found. * * * In the granulation products and associated processes a new tissue is formed, while the smaller caseous areas become impregnated with lime salts. To such conditions alone should the term healing be applied."

The success of Eckman's Alterative in tuberculosis may be due partly to its content of a fluid said to act in combination with other valuable ingredients as to be easily assimilated.

It acts, in total, unlike other treatment already in succeeding, and is now commencing it as more than 40 druggists physicians with their prescriptions. Eckman's contains no opiates, narcotic or habit-forming drugs, it is safe. Sold by all Eckman Drug Stores and leading druggists.

SHEPARD NORWELL COMPANY

'DAKOTA DAN' IS HOME; HAD TRIP AS HOSTLER

"Dakota Dan" Russell came back from war-ridden Europe today. The twice-defeated efaimant for the fortune and name of the late Senator Daniel Russell of Melrose, landed at 4:30 a. m. from the Leyland liner Bohemian on which he made a round trip as night watchman of the horses.

He was away four weeks, and his total pay as a $5 bill, or $1.25 for every seven days, exclusive of grub and lodgings. Half of it was given him to spend during his five days of shore leave on the other side, and the other check for $2.50 was handed him as he came down the gangplank in East Boston today.

"Not a job that would make a man wealthy," drawled the former Dakota ranchman, "but it was a rollicking passage. The deep-sea stunt was a new one to me, but I like it. It was choked withf un all the way. I'm going to do it right over again. I'm some tar now.

"There were 169 of us went over, but only fifty-one made the return trip. The others preferred to stay or enlist. None of the Americans were wanted as soldiers, owning to the fuss kicked up in this country over the Britishers' activities in corralling youngsters.

"Owing to my experience with horses I was made foreman.

Boys Cut Swath, But Now Face Theft Charge

Marlboro girls, who were dazzled by the wealth displayed by five boy campers from New Jersey the past week, will be dismayed today to learn that the "aristocratic" quintette is under arrest at Passaic on larceny charges.

The five are: John Grady, Bernard Hoar, Joseph Wasko, Thomas McCormack and William Honan, aged from fourteen to sixteen. They arrived at Marlboro the middle of the week, sporting white trousers, brilliant neckties and other clothes new and smart. They had expressed a new tent and fine camping outfit from New York and they cut a wide swath in Marlboro until Saturday.

Dispatches today from Passaic say that the five returned there with $1.15 between them and were arrested. According to the police one of the lads has confessed that the trip was financed with $140 and two diamond rings stolen from the trousers of a sleeping neighbor.

But those white trousers and dandy ties surely did enliven Marlboro.

GALVESTON, July 13.—The United States army transports Kilpatrick, McClellan and Buford, which had been ordered out of commission, will be retained here for an indefinite time.

THREATEN BOMB AT CUSTOMS TOWER

Veiled threats to dynamite United States federal property are contained in a warning received by Collector of the Port Edmund Billings which names the Customs House Tower as the place to be guarded. In the same letter are warnings that the interned German liners in the harbor may be blown up.

Extra guards were today placed around the tower.

Although Collector Billings believes the letter was written either by a crank or for a joke, nevertheless extra precautions have been taken to prevent any attempt at the destruction of the tallest building in New England.

Customs guards, all heavily armed, are on duty throughout the building. Extra guards have been placed at ships while loading and the German ships now interned here.

The warning was first received by Superintendent Crowley at police headquarters. The letter is written in a legible, educated hand. It reads as follows:

"Watch the interned German ships in connection with the Holt incident. Guard the Customs House Tower

"Yours truly,

"An American on Guard.

"Underneath the Ship

July 8, 1915.

Superintendent Crowley believes the letter the work of a crank.

EDISON TO HEAD NAVY BOARD ON INVENTIONS

WEST ORANGE, N. J., July 13.—Thomas A. Edison today notified Secretary of the Navy Daniels that he will accept Daniels' invitation to become the head of an advisory board of civilian inventors to help develop new ideas for use of the navy.

Secretary Daniels wrote Mr. Edison last Wednesday, asking whether as a patriotic service to his country he would undertake advising the proposed bureau.

Among the great problems to be laid before the investigators the secretary mentioned submarine warfare, adding that he felt sure that with Mr. Edison to help them, the officers of the navy would be able "to meet this new danger with new devices that will assure peace to our country by their effectiveness."

ASSIGNMENT DUE TO FREAK SHOE STYLES

Orders Countermanded, as Pad Had Waned.

Murray Company of Lynn Expected to Resume Business Soon.

LYNN, June 26.—Increased business without a corresponding increase of capital, together with the recent cut in high-priced shoes, are factors in the assignment of Murray Co., of this city, it was learned today. The assignee is George A. Creighton, a director of the Lynn National Bank, and Albert Hilliard of Hilliard & Hilliard, counsel for the company. The liabilities are estimated at $70,000. The assets are scheduled at $70,000. It is said that the financial troubles of the firm are only temporary and that the business will continue.

DELAY MAY AVERT CRISIS IN NEGOTIATIONS WITH GERMANY

ness calls them upon the high seas and exercise those rights to what should be the well-justified confidence that their lives will not be endangered by acts done in clear violation of universally acknowledged international obligations, and certainly in the confidence that their own government will sustain them in the exercise of their right.

In this note the United States asserted that it would not omit any word or any act to secure these rights.

The State Department authorities say that the "indisputable rights" of travelers on ships are to be deduced from the Declaration of London, which demands that crews shall be given an opportunity to escape and that the rights are further secured by the traditions of international law. The words "indisputable rights," they declare, are only another name for "freedom of the seas." In discussing the one the President will be obliged, they say, to discuss the other, so that the next note will make new precedents in international argument.

The highest and perhaps ablest foreign diplomatic opinion is that there is no such thing as "indisputable rights." This authority said that if there were "indisputable rights" there would be no such thing as limitations by the Declaration of London, by The Hague Convention or by decisions of courts which bind only the nations to which the courts belong.

FOR FREE DISCUSSION.

This authority said further:

"In my judgment, you can very well dismiss all the theories and unofficial and important demands that the United States assert its inalienable rights. All the accepted indisputable rights of citizens of any country are indisputably limited by the rules or lack of rules of warfare in zones in which belligerents are fighting.

"We expect the United States to discuss this paragraph freely and fully in the most friendly way for determination either during or after the present war.

"Since at the date of the Declaration of London and other treaties the submarine had not been evolved as a most important factor in war there are no precedents or rules to go by.

"Even within the last two weeks the capability of a submarine to perform the functions of a cruiser has been shown by German submarines for the first time."

The State Department authorities have passed judgment privately on the propositions that the United States to carry out Germany's suggestions might utilize some of the German liners now in American ports. The department says that such ships would undoubtedly be seized by the allies.

The State Department also does not regard as feasible the proposition that the United States fly its flag over neutral ships as suggested by Germany.

State Department officials were interested today in the revelations over the International News Service case after the President's note on the Lusitania. Germany suggested a truce of two or three weeks in submarine warfare pending a discussion by the United States of the English blockade orders.

The manner in which this proposition of Germany was made and rejected by the State Department is of course one of the secret transactions of the department, and, as stated, was necessarily known to very few officials, American or foreign.

Secretary of State Lansing, who at that time was counselor of the State Department, would not discuss it.

ITALY AWAITS U. S. ACTION ON GERMAN NOTE WITH INTEREST

By International News Service.

ROME, July 13.—America's action on Germany's reply to the German note on submarine warfare is being awaited with interest by Italian official circles. The press devotes considerable space to a discussion of the Berlin note, the general opinion expressed in the editorials being that the United States will not accept its terms.

"Aside from the cynical language with which it endeavors to justify excesses," says the Corriere D'Italia, "the note is quite satisfactory inasmuch as it accepts the principle of not torpedoing an American ship provided the latter is recognized, but the limitations the note would place on it as will arouse the just indignation of the American press and public opinion."

The Tribune says the reply will cause much surprise, especially the part dealing with respect of neutral rights.

TEN YEARS SALES AGENT IN BOSTON

Charles Simpson, Who Lives at Lincoln, Gives All Praise to Plant Juice

It is the duty of everyone to keep themselves in good health, but if the stomach is deranged it affects the liver, kidneys and intestines, and it is impossible for these organs to perform their proper functions, and the result is dyspepsia, indigestion, headache, constipation, biliousness, sleeplessness, lassitude, pains in the back and side, coated tongue and a general "run-down" condition.

Many local people are daily testifying to the efficiency of Plant Juice, the new herbal stomach remedy, after they awoke to the realization of their danger and sought the most legitimate relief. Among the latest testimonials received is that of Mr. Charles Simpson, who lives at Lincoln Place, Lincoln, Mass. Mr. Simpson is well known in Boston, where he had been a selling agent for the past ten years, and he is now an employee of the railroad company in Lincoln, Mass. He stated:

"I had indigestion and at times pains for a very long time. Finally rheumatism set in my shoulder and right arm. The pain was very severe, and at times I would have to quit my work. The food fermented in my stomach and caused gas to form. I had tried various remedies, but never received any permanent help, until finally I began to take Plant Juice. I noticed results the very first day, and now, after only a few weeks, I am enjoying the best health I have in years, and give all credit for my present good health to Plant Juice, for it has put me in good condition after all other medicines have failed."

There are numerous symptoms of this trouble that Plant Juice can relieve so fast, any of the following may denote affections of the liver: Indigestion, dyspepsia, sallowness of skin, bad breath, sick headache, nervousness, poor circulation, cold hands, that tired feeling, coated tongue or poor complexion.

The Plant Juice man is at the Arcade store, corner of Washington and Avon streets, where he daily meets the local public and introduces and explains the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

An Unfailing Way to Banish Hairs

(Beauty Notes)

Ugly hairy growths can be removed in the privacy of your own home if you get a small original package of delatone and mix into a paste enough of the powder and water to cover the hairy surface. This should be left on the skin about 2 minutes, then removed and the skin washed and every trace of hair will have vanished. No harm or inconvenience can result from this treatment, but be sure you buy real delatone.—Advertisement.

EDIZIONE ITALIANA
BOSTON AMERICAN

VOL. 1. BOSTON, 13 LUGLIO, 1915. NO. 13.

La Stampa Italiana Commenta Sfavorevolmente La Replica Della Germania.

Conquistando il Trentino

MILANO, 12 luglio.—Nella parte a sud del Trentino gli Italiani han fatto dei progressi importanti, avanzando nella vallata dell'Adige, in direzione di Roverato, città fortemente difesa dagli Austriaci.

Roverato è importantissima, che rappresenta la chiave verso Trente. La cattura delle nuove posizioni si deve agli Alpini, i quali si coprono giornalmente di gloria.

I dintorni di Corina d'Ampezzo, nei numerosi passi e creste di monti, all'altezza di 2000 metri, sono stat i pure conquistati, sicchè gli Italiani si sono rafforzati nei pressi di Dolomite e ne controllano le strade.

Con la scalata di Tofano e la presa, fatta con attacco di sorpresa, del gruppo di monti che sovrastano il primo, gli Italiani ora comandano il tiro contro le trincee austriache di Travenanzes, che forma una strada da montagna naturale verso l'altra vallata di Botto. Ove gli Austriaci sono stati costretti a rifasciare, non dopo lottare, i punti strategici su cui si erano stabiliti.

Gli Austriaci fecero un'avanita resistenza ad Andraz; ma le truppe italiane respinte, attraversarono la vallata, ricacciarono i nemici dalle loro posizioni sul colle Lama. Lama, conquistando così una altra porta della strada di Dolomite, che gli Austriaci fecero per invadere l'Italia.

Slanci Audaci dan la Vittoria

Alcune delle posizioni recentemente conquistate dagli Italiani furon prese dopo violentissimi combattimenti. Spesso, battaglie di violenza eccezionale furon combattute da truppe ammassate in piccole e strette gole.

La cattura importante di Globna, ad esempio, fu fatta da un reggimento che si trovava in una montagna, ammassato di fronte a una gran quantita' di austriaci protetti da numerose trincee e rafforzati dall'artiglieria. Migliaia di srappnels furono diretti contro gli Italiani, ma, quantique il reggimento si trovasse per la prima volta sotto il fuoco, gli Italiani corsero bravamente all'assalto ed in poche ore issarono la loro bandiera, sul punto conquistato, da cui gli Austraciai eran fuggiti.

FOIL PLOT ON GERMANS PLAN THE LIFE OF WARSAW DRIVE SPRING-RICE FROM NORTH

By FRANCIS LAVELLE MURRAY, Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

NEW YORK, July 13.—An extraordinary account of an attempt to murder Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British Ambassador, by what is thought to have been a "Munster gang," was given to an official of Nassau County today by one of the chauffeurs of J. Pierpont Morgan.

On the night of July 5, the Monday following the attack upon Mr. Morgan by Holt, the British Ambassador decided to visit the home of Willard D. Straight in Greenvale. The trip took the limousine through a lonely section of the Jericho turnpike, about a mile from Greenvale.

The Morgan machine had nearly passed outside the ring of guards around the Morgan estate, when the chauffeur noticed another machine, a large touring car, about a hundred yards in advance of him.

The fact that the car had no rear light was the first thing that aroused the chauffeur's suspicions. He noticed also that it kept the same distance, slowing down when he slowed down and speeding up when he did.

When both cars reached a narrow strip of the Jericho turnpike, a mile from Greenvale, they were still the same distance apart. The mysterious car slowed up and swung across the road, an effective barrier to the approaching Morgan machine, six men jumped out of the stalled car and lined up on either side of the road, forming a cordon through which the Morgan car would be forced, seemingly, to drive, as there was not enough room to turn around.

It was then that the quick wit of the Morgan chauffeur saved the British Ambassador from whatever designs the attacking party may have had upon him.

Turning his car the chauffeur jumped the shallow drainage ditch by the side of the road and before the startled sextette ahead could realize what he was about he was driving at top speed across the unfenced farm land toward another road half a mile away.

No attempt was made, it was related by the other automobile to pursue the fleeing diplomat and he reached the Straight home without further mishap. A report of the occurrence to the Federal authorities, it is said, brought to the vicinity of Glen Cove the secret service men who passed several days there following the Morgan shooting.

FRENCH AIR FLEET RAIDS VIGNEULLES

By FRANKLIN P. MERRICK, Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

PARIS, July 13.—French aviators have made a successful attack upon the railroad station at Vigneulles, which is held by the Germans, the War Office announced today. The aerial fleet, consisting of thirty-five aeroplanes, one of the largest sent out during the war, swooped upon the German position and bombarded it heavily.

The aviators dropped 171 shells upon the station and the town. The station was set on fire. Successful in their raid, all the aeroplanes returned in safety to their base, according to the official communique.

ANGELA MORGAN TELLS SPIRIT OF GERMANY

"We work by day and weep at night," was the heroic remark of a German woman in a hospital in Berlin to Miss Angela Morgan, the Boston poet, and Miss Rebecca Shelly, delegates to the recent Women's Peace Congress at The Hague, who arrived in New York on the Holland-American liner Rotterdam.

After the conference Miss Shelly and Miss Morgan went into Germany "to get the German point of view," as Miss Morgan expressed it.

The two young women had many adventures in their journey. On the voyage back the Rotterdam was held up eleven days at the Downs and Avonmouth by the British Naval authorities. The cargo was not molested, but three German passengers were taken off. In the cargo were 50,000 canary birds.

"Between Rotterdam and Avonmouth," said Miss Morgan, "three British ships were torpedoed in the path of our ship, including the Leyland liner Armenian. We passed through the wreckage of the sunken ships, and during the time we were detained we saw submarines, Zeppelins, torpedo boat destroyers and other machines of war, and witnessed the departure of the steamship Franconia, now a transport, with 2,000 Canadian soldiers bound for the Dardanelles.

A THRILLING INCIDENT.

"On the transport the young soldiers were cheering all day long. One night they all burst into the strains of 'Tipperary.' They sung it through. There was silence for a minute, then suddenly from our ship Vernon Stiles, the American tenor, who had been appearing at the Saxon Court, singing through a megaphone, burst into the strains of 'Auld Lang Syne.' Then followed 'Annie Laurie.'

"As his voice died out across the water another silence fell, and then from the 3,000 young men there came a long, deep cheer. With that cheer ringing in our ears the great ship slowly passed out to sea."

In Germany the young women had several dispiriting experiences.

"At one of the American Red Cross hospitals in Munich," said Miss Morgan, "we saw scores of poor men who had been blinded in battle. They were making pitiful efforts to learn to read and write under the new conditions. One poor fellow had had his face so mangled that he will have to wear a mask over it the rest of his life. He had been engaged to marry when the war started, but his romance was at an end.

"All that he had was his Iron Cross which he clung to like a baby with her doll. I turned to a German lady who was standing near and spoke to her about our peace movement. She pointed silently to that terribly wounded man.

"'How can you talk peace to us,' she asked, 'when you are sending ammunition from America that is putting out the eyes of our sons?'

"We felt terribly rebuked," added Miss Morgan.

Miss Shelly related a similar experience.

"We were in Berlin, at a soup kitchen," she said, "when the lady in charge of the kitchen approached and said, not unkindly, but with deep woe:

"'Please do not talk English. I cannot bear to hear it.

"We learned later she had lost in the war her husband, her two sons and her two sons-in-law. Every male member of her family had fallen."

GERMANY'S HIGH SPIRIT.

"There is a wonderful spirit everywhere in Germany," Miss Morgan continued. "The soldiers sing as they march away, the children and grown-ups sing in the street. The whole people seem to be living in a state of wonderful spiritual exaltation."

"The women of Germany are united in the effort to do the work which was abandoned by the men when the summons to war came," Miss Shelly said. "There is an organization of girl scouts, many of them from the best families, who labor in the fields after school hours tilling the soil and raising food."

Miss Morgan earnestly insisted, and "one of the saddest things we heard," said Miss Morgan, "was a report in the American Red Cross Hospital in Munich, the head of which is Dr. Jung of Washington, that the history of many hundreds of cases shows they received their wounds from American ammunition."

John Quinn in Fine Health; to Run Again

"Honest John" Quinn, Jr., sheriff of Suffolk County, issued a vigorous statement today that his health was first class, and that he was a candidate for re-election "until the polls close."

It has been understood and printed that "Honest John" is after another term, but the sheriff may have thought there was some lingering doubt in the minds of some of the voters about his intentions or the state of his health. Hence his statement today.

The sheriff calls attention also to his policy of humane treatment of prisoners, so far as his office will permit.

Mother Not to Blame if Father Is Spendthrift

Judge Logan of South Boston court ruled today that, even if father spends his inheritance carelessly, that doesn't relieve the children from supporting the mother because the latter may not have been able to prevent the extravagance.

William E. H. Horn of No. 6 Elton street, Dorchester, and his sister, Mrs. Carrie W. Hicks of South Framingham, were charged with failing to support their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Horn of No. 741 Dorchester avenue.

Both said that their father inherited $3,000 seventeen years ago and had spent it carelessly. Judge Logan found them not guilty, so far as support of the father went.

In regard to her mother, the daughter said that she had occasionally sent her groceries, so Judge Logan found the daughter not guilty. He ruled Horn, the son, guilty of neglecting to support his mother and fined him $50. He appealed and was held in $200.

JAMES AGAIN IN CELL AT BERLIN

BERLIN, July 13.—Edward Holton James of Cambridge, Mass., who was editor of the Paris Liberator when it published the Mylius libel alleging a morganatic marriage of King George, is again in prison here today.

He was arrested for alleged objectionable socialistic propaganda but later released through the efforts of James W. Gerard, the American ambassador, on condition that he leave the country.

He was again arrested because he returned to Berlin.

This time James has declined to appeal to the ambassador for aid, declaring such an appeal would be inconsistent with his views of government.

James, who was graduated from Harvard in 1896, will be remembered in connection with the prosecution in England in 1911 of Edward F. Mylius. Mylius was charged with having libelled King George by the publication in the Liberator of Paris, of which James was the editor, of an article asserting that the King in 1926, when he was Prince George of Wales and the Duke of York, had contracted a morganatic marriage.

MUZZLE ORDER FOR DOGS PROTESTED

Dog owners raised a wail of protest today over the order passed by the City Council for signature of the Acting Mayor today, requiring every dog to be muzzled until October 15—a period of ninety days.

They protest that the "mad dog" season is usually of short duration and seldom lasts until late Summer, whereas the muzzle regulation will continue to torture the dogs until long after any need. They object, also, that muzzles are ineffective implements of torture at the best, serving to protect other dogs or human beings but little, and tending to increase distemper and susceptibility to disease in general among the poor canines.

The order, however, was passed by the City Council with no dissenting voice, on recommendation of the Board of Health. Boston is one of the last communities to fill the requirement of the State Bureau of Animal Industry to enforce quarantine strict enough to check the alarming spread of rabies prevalent in eastern Massachusetts. The order carries with it provision for a $25 fine, and delegates to the police department the task of enforcement.

Violin Lessons a New Torture for School Boy

The "long vacation" lost half its joy today. The small boy who dreads the annual return to school has now a new terror awaiting him, surpassing in torture anything the tyranny of the school system ever devised before.

He may have to take violin lessons! And that is not the worst of it—just think of the "practicing" most detested torture in all the life of the full-blooded youngster. It's all too true. The school committee passed the violin lesson order. It applies to elementary schools and is advised by the new music committee.

Now certainly is the time a poor kid needs a friend. Practicing! Gee.

"THE GODDESS"

By GOUVERNEUR MORRIS and CHARLES W. GODDARD

By Gouverneur Morris and Charles W. Goddard.

Copyright, 1916, by Star Company

IN the face of Kehr's stubbornness it was not easy to make progress toward a settlement of the strike and at last Celestia telegraphed to Gordon Barclay and asked for definite power to speak for the coal companies and treat with the labor leaders.

His answer was a flying trip to Bitumen.

He was very sharp with Kehr, humbled him and browbeat him, caused Gunsdorf and the other leaders to be released, and then, after a long secret conference with Professor Stilliter, he gave Celestia the power she asked for.

Before returning to New York he sent for Gunsdorf et al., made a personal peace with them and obtained their political allegiance.

"Celestia," he told them, "is right. The troubles between labor and capital are only one symptom of the great national wastage that has gone on since the beginning of things. The Constitution is a fine instrument, but it doesn't work as it was meant to because of the politicians.

"We can't get a new Constitution without a revolution. But that revolution need not be bloody. We must give up electing men to high office on promises of efficiency, and elect only men with records of efficiency. We must be a nation and no longer a collection of States pulling the Government every which way for local interests.

"We must see to it that the country is run like a trust bank or a great industry."

And he showed them how he believed that Celestia's system in question would wipe discontent from the face of the country.

"Celestia," he said, "has been empowered to settle this strike. In her judgment you are entitled to what you have asked for, and you will get it. But as the cost of living keeps rising, the advances which you are to receive will no longer spell luxury.

"You'll be in precisely the same box you are in now. No permanent good will come of makeshift adjustments. Labor will find no permanent content under present conditions. I look to your individual and collective support for the new Constitution.

"I believe that as a platform it will sweep the country in November, for its advantages to both labor and capital are so obvious that these two will be on the same side for once and henceforth, and when they are on the same side there is no resisting them."

Only Tommy and Mrs. Gunsdorf held out against Celestia's influence. Tommy had never been affected by her hypnotic sway, and Mrs. Gunsdorf had devised a trick to thwart it.

Having learned that there was something in Celestia's eye, some power which she could neither fathom nor resist, Mrs. Gunsdorf maintained her own independence in thought and action by the simple expedient of never meeting Celestia's eye.

Mrs. Gunsdorf was violently opposed to Celestia's theories. This opposition was not arrived at by elaborate mental process. The two women loved the same man. And the man very obviously loved Celestia (for when he wasn't with her he was trying his best to be with her). This was enough to place Mrs. Gunsdorf on any side of any question if only it was the opposite to Celestia's.

Barclay Summons Gunsdorf and Leaves Celestia to Settle the Strike

Twice, when Celestia was addressing meetings of strikers (in the interest of peace and progress), Mrs. Gunsdorf succeeded in creating such violent disturbance that she had to be removed forcibly from the room.

The strikers' favorite place for meeting was in a large, shabby dance hall, in the meanest and most squalid section of Bitumen. Having been ejected from this hall Mrs. Gunsdorf stood upon the outer steps, a picture of impotent and jealous rage.

A young woman, who, from her plain, neat costume rather suggested that she might be a lady's maid, and whose features were not distinctly visible owing to a thick veil, turned from perusing a bill poster which announced to the passersby the purpose of the meeting, at that moment in progress, to look at Mrs. Gunsdorf.

Mrs. Gunsdorf in turn eyed the stranger, and her rage gave place gradually to curiosity. Neatly and smartly dressed young women were very rare in Bitumen.

"Is the meeting over?" asked the stranger presently.

Mrs. Gunsdorf shook her head.

"Nor likely to be as long as there's a fool left to listen. When she gets through speaking they yell for her until she has to speak again. Ever hear her?"

Mrs. Gunsdorf shrugged her vigorous shoulders with contempt.

"I never have," said the stranger. "I think I don't want to."

"Then what brings you to Bitumen? People are pouring in from all around to hear what she says. There doesn't seem to be any reason for coming to Bitumen."

"But she doesn't seem to have impressed you favorably?"

"Me! Huh! I don't say she hasn't got good looks of a kind, but what a man can see in a namby-pamby goody-goody like her gets me. Well, I'm going to move on. So long!"

The stranger hesitated, then simply followed and overtook Mrs. Gunsdorf.

"Do you mind if I walk with you? I—I was going your way."

"How did you know which way I was going?"

"I mean the way you are starting to go." The stranger laughed frankly. "And that's not the whole truth. I came to Bitumen to find out certain things. I'm a sort of reporter and new at the business. The boss told me there was a big story here and for me to go and get it. He only gave me a few hints to go on, and"——

Men Who Win Love

Let Women Beware of the Pirate Who Masquerades

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"HERE who mine heart would keep for long
Shall her a gentill man and strong."

Quoted the heroine of a well-known novel. How wisely she chooses her motto!

However love wanders for a time, however the heart of a woman goes a-tripping at the call of fascinating freebooters, in the end LOVE COMES HOME. And the "home" of a woman's love can be only in the harbor of a loyal man's heart.

"The man who understands women" is all too often nothing more than a thief of love, a bandit and pirate. He studies woman after woman—to their cost. Each one he leaves, having learned about women from her—and then on to the next he goes, to give her a little brief fevered happiness and then to leave her sadder and wiser and either miserable in her disillusionment or climbing on a memory that is not worthy of a thought.

"The man who understands women" understands their emotions because he plays upon them. The most sacred feelings he examines and classifies. He goes to scientifically conducted—but since it is a game it ought never be dangerous to the woman who will stop and think.

Woman ought never to cease to remember that in marriage their happiness is made for them by the love they accept. Any woman who lets a weak, selfish, unstable man gain power over her through his pirate gift to steal hearts, is preparing for herself an aftermath of misery to follow a harvest of weeds instead of grain. The weeds may be bright-colored and alluring to the eye—but they can bring nothing of permanent value into the life.

Too often a woman's love transforms a man until she does not see him as he is—but as she longs to have him be. To the half-deceived eyes, dross becomes clear gold. The pirate of love cleverly helps her keep up her illusions at first while she is new and attractive enough to make him feel the urge to play well.

But at a time laziness or weariness makes him too selfish and indifferent to struggle to preserve a woman's happiness. The woman goes on believing and believing—believing in the face of the evidence of her burning eyes, and the testimony of her aching heart. But at last one day her heart comes into the heritage she prepared for herself when she accepted the unworthy love of a moral weakling—and her "bread is sorrow," and her "drink is tears."

Think of the women you see about you all too often—women with dull, ceiled-out looking eyes and an air of dejected hopelessness—women who are old before their time—women whose health is gone because they do not feel the urge of spirit and the uplift of faith that keep youth and health. A wickedly large proportion of them are suffering from the cynicism, the loneliness, the corroding longing that follow on giving a heart when with it cannot go respect and admiration and faith.

In the long run the man a woman finds a haven and a home. It holds stimulating interests for himself and do her best work. It gives her kindness and understanding and faith—she perhaps no fevered love-making and no wild stimulation and no promise of ecstatic romance.

But the love of a true man holds simple joy and contentment and trust and tenderness. It may not key her so high as does the love-making of a practiced Lothario—but it will not drop her so low in despair and unrequited longing when once she has, with simple good faith, given faith to require its imitation.

Women might save themselves heart-burning and heart-break and misery and shame if only they would force their hearts to join hands with their emotions. The one genuine need not go out of life—but one may judge what is true romance and what play-acting.

If a woman holds herself in short in time and listens to reason—listens to the voice of her intellects, of her sensible soul—and holds the evidence and weighs it against the way eyes herself heart-ache and agony.

VILLA'S DARING RAID LEADS TO NEW CRISIS

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—State Department officials were less ready to discuss the early recognition of a government in Mexico today, following the reports of General Villa's dash southward from Agua Calientes, than they were yesterday.

By his bold raid past the army of General Obregon and into a friendly region from which he might reach Mexico City, Villa is considered to have once more set the balance of Mexican politics wavering.

It is possible that another fortnight may find Villa and Zapata forces closing in upon General Gonzales' army in Mexico City, just as Gonzales hemmed in the confronting forces there a month ago.

From Piedras Negras Vice-Consul Bieker reported to the department that information brought to him indicated the defeat of the Carrancistas by the Villa forces under General Hernandez at Barroteran. The Carranistas troops were reported to be retreating toward Lampazos in the State of Nuevo Leon.

Rail communication with Mexico City has been restored and the first trains from Puebla to the capital were to be dispatched today, according to a report from Consul General Silliman at Vera Cruz on Wednesday. This offers opportunity for the immediate transportation to the Mexican capital of famine-relief supplies.

MISS GARMONG IN FIGHT TO RETAIN $116,000 VERDICT

PORTLAND, July 13.—Elizabeth Garmong will commence her fight today to retain the $116,000 awarded by a jury in her claim that John Brooks Henderson, Jr., son of the late Senator Henderson, had broken his promise to marry her.

This was the largest verdict ever granted by a New England jury in a breach of promise case, and was promptly appealed by Henderson, who placed his fortune at $1,000,000 at the opening of the trial. The appeal arguments will commence today before the Law Court.

Since her success with the jury, which was impressed by her appeal for her little child's welfare, which she swore was Mary Garmong, Henderson's daughter, Miss Garmong has been living in Whiting Hill, Bangor, working for $1 a week and board for herself and little Mary.

"I believe he still loves me," she said, even after the trial had been all her secrets, referring to the millionaire lawyer. "And I am sure that he adores the child. I think he would have come back to us before this if he had been free to do as he liked."

Miss Garmong first met Henderson in Washington while she was working as a nurse. She is a graduate of the University of Iowa and studied medicine at the Johns Hopkins University.

Funeral of Bride Who Was Drowned

The funeral of Mrs. Thomas Gallagher, No. 16 Linden street, Brookline, the bride of three weeks, who was drowned while on her honeymoon at Wellfleet, N. H., last week, was held today in St. Mary's Church of the Assumption, Brookline, the church where she was married. In the sanctuary was the Rev. James M. Donahue, a cousin of Monsignor Donahue, uncle of the bride, who married the couple on June 21. After the funeral Father Donahue escorted the body to East Brookfield, her birthplace, for interment, before her marriage Mrs. Gallagher was Miss Rosella McCarty.

CHARGES BOARD AND ANDERSON BROKE LAW

Attorney Conrad W. Crooker, who represented William B. Lawrence of Medford in the big fight against the Boston & Maine reorganization bill, today filed a formal statement with Attorney-General Attwill accusing United States District Attorney George W. Anderson and the Massachusetts Public Service Commission of violating the law.

Crooker's statement not only questions the propriety of the Public Service Commission in advocating railroad legislation and charges Mr. Anderson and the Commission with violation of the law, but requests the Attorney General to begin prosecution at once.

The point raised by Mr. Crooker are:

(1) Was it the duty of the Public Service Commission to actively advocate railroad legislation?

(2) Had the commission the legal or moral right to employ Mr. Anderson as counsel in the advocacy of legislation?

(3) Was it a legal impropriety for Mr. Anderson, who is the United States District Attorney, to be employed by the commission in an intra-State matter?

(4) Did the commission violate the lobby act by failing to make written return of Mr. Anderson's fee to the Secretary of State?

(5) Did Mr. Anderson, himself, violate the law by failing to register as legislative counsel with the sergeant-at-arms?

Mr. Crooker answers his questions in the affirmative and then asks for prosecution.

Chairman Frederick J. Macleod of the Public Service Commission said that the Public Service Commission entered the situation at the request of the Legislature. With respect to the lobby act, Mr. Macleod says it was the opinion of the commission that it did not apply to State commissions.

Tender Jumps Rail at North Station

The tender of the locomotive, leaving the track, caused a slight delay in train service at the North Station early today. According to the official statement of the road the locomotive was attached to train No. 15, due in Boston from Reading at 8:15. In backing out from the train shed about 8:20 the tender of the locomotive jumped the track just outside the depot. The train was empty and no one was injured.

How To Banish Wrinkles Quickly

If your face is disfigured with wrinkles, no matter what the cause, you can quickly dispel every line, even the most obstinate, by using a simple, home-made wash lotion. Merely dissolve an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint witch hazel—inexpensive ingredients found in any drugstore. Bathe the face in this delightful lotion morning and evening, and every wrinkle, no matter how deep, will begin to disappear. Use this once a day for a while and it cannot injure the most delicate skin. The treatment itself leaves no trace, and one guesses the secret of your increasing youthful appearance.—Advertisement.

Catholics of Chicago Honor Dead Prelate

By International News Service.

CHICAGO, July 12.—More than 1,000,000 Catholics of Chicago and vicinity will take part, directly or indirectly, in the funeral ceremonies for Most Rev. James Edward Quigley, archbishop of Chicago, which began today with the arrival of his body in Chicago. The ceremonies will be practically continuous until late Thursday afternoon.

From La Salle street railroad station, where the body of the prelate arrived from Rochester at 7:45 a. m. today, more than 4,000 laymen and priests escorted the remains to Holy Name Cathedral.

WILL STOP MINE STRIKE IN ENGLAND

By International News Service.

LONDON, July 13.—The government today took drastic steps to avert the strike of 12,000 miners ordered to begin in South Wales on Thursday. It decided to invoke the provisions of the munitions act, which make arbitration compulsory and make every striker liable to a fine.

Announcement of the government's decision was made in the House of Commons this afternoon by President Walter Runciman of the Board of Trade. He asserted that the munitions act made it illegal for anyone to participate in strikes unless the board of trade had first investigated and made a report.

A strike in the South Wales coal fields, at present would seriously cripple the manufacture of munitions and it was for this reason that the government took its sharp action.

Sailor Guilty of Killing Hotel Man

Merlle L. Hartshorn, a sailor, indicted by the Suffolk Grand Jury for manslaughter, pleaded guilty when brought before Judge Brown in the Superior Court. He was charged with killing John F. BIG CONVENTION OF ELKS OPENED

By International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, July 13.—Following the customary patriotic addresses the 1915 session of the Grand Lodge B. P. O. Elks was formally opened here today.

Routine business matters were disposed of during the first hour of the session and the delegates hurried through this part of the program to enjoy the festivities arranged for them at Venice, Ocean Park and Santa Monica. Everything in these cities was thrown open to the visiting horde of Elks.

The big feature of the day was the gorgeous electric pageant to be staged at dusk this evening, the first of a series of great parades which will be part of the convention celebration.

The fight between Atlanta and Baltimore for the honor of entertaining the 1916 convention of the Grand Lodge was waxing warm today. The boosters of the two cities were putting all their energies into the contest, and it was impossible to say which delegation was growing the more popular.

There was no contest against James R. Nicholson of Springfield, Mass., for the office of grand exalted ruler.

Eugenics Lessens Weddings.

MADISON, Wis., July 13.—Under the eugenic marriage law the number of weddings in Wisconsin declined from 21,852 in 1913 to 17,240 in 1914, a decrease of 3,507, according to an announcement today by Dr. C. A. Harper, secretary of the State Board of Health and Vital Statistics.

Policeman Says He Was Hit With a Watermelon

He hit me with a watermelon," was the accusation of Patrolman Peter Norton of the East Dedham street station against Albert Bornstein of East Lexington in the Municipal Court yesterday.

Patrolman Norton said the watermelon episode occurred in connection with trouble at a religious meeting at Davis street and Harrison avenue Sunday.

GOOD NEWS FOR THE DEAF

If you are losing your hearing—if you are troubled with buzzing and ringing in the ears—if you find that your nostrils are clogged—if you hawk and spit in the morning—if you have given up hopes of finding relief, just go to Riker-Jaynes, or any other drug store, and purchase one ounce of Fluid Ensenol. Mix this with one pint of warm water. Put two drops in the affected ear every night. Put one tablespoonful in a fourth of a glass of warm water and gargle throat and snuff up nose night and morning. Keep this up for a few weeks and test your hearing and you will be pleased to note the improvement. You will also, no doubt, discover that your catarrh has disappeared and head noises gone.

WASHACUM PARK TO BE BOUGHT BY STATE

CLINTON, July 13.—Announcement is made here that the famous Washacum Park, on the shores of Washacum Lake in Sterling, is to be purchased by the State, through the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Board, and that this is the last season the grounds will be used by picnickers.

Tremont Theatre.

The highest tribute to a stage producer's art is for his work to become the vogue and dictate the styles of dress and manners. Judged by this test, David W. Griffith wields a greater influence than any other contemporary playwright or director. "The Birth of a Nation," now running at the Tremont Theatre, has brought back a wave of interest in everything relating to Civil War times.

Modern Theatre.

In the latest William Fox production, "Should a Mother Tell?," which is the feature attraction at the Modern Theatre this week, there is seen dramatic action that is rarely if ever beheld upon the screen.

BOSTON'S MID-SUMMER AMUSEMENTS

'THE BLUE MOUSE' AT CASTLE SQUARE

"The Blue Mouse," adapted from the German by Clyde Fitch, a three act farcial comedy, hilariously funny, was presented to capacity houses at the Castle Square Theatre yesterday and was greeted as an overwhelming success by the many admirers of the Craig Players.

The plot has to do with the activities of a young married man, Augustus Rollett secretary of the president of a railroad whose ambition is to become even more independent of the road. To effect the fulfilment of the desire he employs Paulette Leyton, a young actress of questioned repute, who poses as his wife when Llewellyn, the head of the road, happens around.

Rollett becomes mixed up in complications which threaten to prove serious. The stage girl fascinates the railroad head, and while under her influence he signs a paper which gains Rollett the position he has so long desired.

In the last act all the "mysteries" are cleared up and everything ends happily.

PLAY NEW SCHMIDT MARCH AT POPS

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

It begins to look as though a new March King had arisen in the person of Ernst Schmidt, assistant conductor of the Symphony Orchestra, who resumed the conductor's stand at the Pops last night.

The big popular success of the season is Schmidt's "Blue-White," a smashing fine march, which was encored again and again last night, and he has also produced the Exposition march and the American Flag march, which is to be played for the first time next Saturday night. His marches are full of martial fire, have a fine cadence and contain catchy and original melodies.

If Mr. Schmidt will consent to extreme simplified versions for the piano, will engage a few New York music pluggers and subsidize a lot of vaudeville musical acts, he may get rich out of his marches. But, come to think of it, he is a serious musician and he probably won't do any of them things.

Last night was Wagner night at the "Pops" and the program included the prelude to the "Mastersingers," "Forest Murmurs" from "Siegfried," the Grail scene from "Parsifal" and Siegfried's Rhine Journey from "The Dusk of the Gods." These numbers were played in a very distinguished manner. Mention must be made of the performances of Schumann's Evening Song and the Hunter's Chase from Weber's "Preciosa," which were wonderfully played by the eight horns of the orchestra. A lively program announced for tonight.

Globe Theatre.

Many big features were shown at the Globe Theatre yesterday. Among the headliners to appear was Harry Thomson, who delighted the large audience with his monologue, also the different characters from a cartoon scene. Others to appear were Charles Behind Cure Company in a farce comedy sketch entitled "Back to Buffalo." The Rhine Four pleased with their singing and piano offering. Clarke and Davis presented a unique dancing novelty. Hayes and Healeen appeared in an up-to-date talking and dancing skit. Beth Challis, the versatile entertainer, pleased. Jerome and Carson kept the house amused with their acrobatic stunts. Among the feature photo plays was Charlie Chaplin, the latest comedy, "A Woman." "The Romance of Elaine" and other photo plays were shown.

Park Theatre.

Three full hours of high class entertainment, without a single dull moment, is the offering this week at the Park Theatre and the Monday matinee patrons were pleased with the entire bill, including the new Lasky feature production released by the Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Company, Charlotte Walker in "Kindling." Blanche Sweet in "The Clue"; also Rosie Greenwood in a distinct also superior role in "The Mysterious Voice."

St. James Theatre.

One of the best shows of the season was witnessed at the St. James Theatre. Among the features were Lewis, Belmont and Lewis, in their clever comedy skit entitled "After the Matinee." A sketch new to Boston presented by Matthew Orr entitled "Shot at Sunrise," which had many funny situations, was well received. A beautiful act was the "Dancing Beauty," one of the latest Lasky Broadway types.

Amusements at Greater Boston Summer Resorts

NANTASKET BEACH.

It was like old times to see the fine steamers of the Nantasket Line crowded with merrymakers Sunday and yesterday.

PLYMOUTH.

The short trip to the home of the Pilgrims is proving more popular than ever this season.

KING PHILIP.

Captain Wilson's fishing steamer King Philip is now in commission and carrying out big crowds every day. A jolly way to spend a day.

BASS POINT.

This popular resort was thronged during the holidays and the comfortable steamers of the line well patronized.

PROVINCETOWN.

NORUMBEGA PARK.

LEXINGTON PARK.

The Adam Good Company is putting on standard plays in the Rustic Theatre.

PEMBERTON INN.

This hilltop class resort, in the cool cool spot within easy distance of Boston, will have the most successful season in its history, judging by present patronage.

PARAGON PARK.

WARM WEATHER SHOW AT KEITH'S

There is a warm weather show at Keith's this week, and that means that the audiences can sit back in their seats and forget the temperature.

There's a lot of good melodious singing by the Boston Meistersingers that transports the listener to the railway station back in the old home town in the country, where the sun is shining in the West and the end of a long Summer day covers meadows, hills and village with dreamy romance.

You'll like that melody about the station as a means of the "leading motif" for the White Mouse table cartoon.

If you are looking for something novel as well as lively as they made 'em, wait for the ripper troupe with their version of the steel-cutting jumping-jack, self-starter variety, which makes the stage for the minutes a marvel of motion, grace and agility.

There is no go to laugh will shake when Ben Welch in his Hebrew characterization takes them all into his confidence and tells, with detail by detail, how he molded into the "nobility" of the "400" in one night. Such high up in the cabarets and "tried to do society" well.

Belle Blanche, the prima donna impersonator, Jodie Edna and her company, Joe Ratliff and Jack Anthony all add good, clean comedy to a truly diverting program.

'LITTLEST REBEL' AT THE BOSTON

Mary Miles Minter, the original "Virgie" of Edward Peple's greatest success, "The Littlest Rebel," in the great six-part picturization of Charles K. Harris' wonderful love ballad, "Always in the Way," heads a splendid all-picture program at the Boston Theatre this week.

Little Miss Minter in making her debut as a picture star in "Always in the Way," and she could not have chosen a better vehicle. The original ballad by Charles K. Harris swept the country like wildfire and it ranked at the heartstrings of a million people.

The big comedy feature of the bill at the Boston Theatre is Charlie Chaplin's newest and funniest creation, entitled "Women." Other features of the bill include Caroline B. Nichols and The Fidettes, Boston's own favorite women's orchestra, with daily concerts before the performance afternoon and evening; "The Godless," with Earle Williams and Anita Stewart.

Scollay Square.

A very pleasing bill of strong vaudeville and photo-plays was shown at the Scollay Square Olympia Theatre yesterday. The bill included Ben Kindler in a very clever whistling offering; Mack Simons and Sadie Picks in song and dance with pretty scenery; LaRue and Richmond in a clever skit entitled "Hello, Jim!" and dancer; Walter Fessler and Barrett in the intensely dramatic playlet, "In the Service of the Czar"; Jack Strauss, eccentric character comedian. Three Reeves in a very clever club swinging offering.

'L' ADVERTISES PARKS BY ZOO CAR

Don't be surprised if you run across elephants, buffalo or tropical fish in one of the Boston Elevated Company's surface cars. The elevated is conducting a traveling zoo.

These are "picture animals," however, painted by Fred C. Sanborn on an advertising car which the Elevated is running to call public attention to the Summer parks and recreation grounds which its lines serve.

The car is one of the old-style open ones. With canvas sides.

At night this car is "lit up" to hit the public eye all the harder.

Bowdoin Square Theatre.

Foremost among the girl shows of Boston and vicinity is that offered at the Bowdoin Square Theatre by Violet Mascotte's Forty Merrie Maids, an organization of pretty misses who have become great favorites with all patrons and each week present an entirely new program with all the latest song hits of the day introduced.

SAYS NO ONE NEED REMAIN THIN NOW

Physician's Advice for Thin, Undeveloped Men and Women.

Thousands of people suffer from excessive thinness, weak nerves and feeble stomachs who, having tried advertised flesh-makers, food-fads, physical culture stunts and rub-on creams, resign themselves to lifelong skinniness and think nothing will make them fat. Yet their case is not hopeless. A recently discovered regenerative tonic has grown after years of thinness, and is also unequalled for curing the worst cases of sickness or faulty digestion and for strengthening the nerves. This remarkable discovery is called Sargol. Six strength-giving, fat-producing elements are contained in Sargol. It has been combined in this peerless preparation, which is endorsed by prominent physicians and used by prominent people everywhere. It is absolutely harmless, inexpensive and efficient.

Sargol is a scientific, concentrated tablet that will put solid flesh on you where you need it by assimilating the fatty food elements in the food you eat and carrying them to the blood. Increased nourishment is obtained from the food eaten, and the blood is filled with the rich, red corpuscles that bring health, strength and vitality to every part of the body. Sargol is a revelation to thin people because it is the only preparation that has ever been found which will positively help them to put on flesh in a short time.

Sargol is sold by leading druggists in every town in America. If you are thin and want to put on good solid flesh, you should get a package of Sargol and see what it will do for you. Remember, you are not asked to simply accept the statements made regarding Sargol, but you are told to go to your own druggist and get a package of Sargol and see what it will do for you. Sargol is sold by druggists under a positive guarantee that if it does not give entire satisfaction in increasing weight, after the first package has been used, the druggist is authorized to refund the purchase price. Sargol is sold in Boston and vicinity by Riker-Jaynes and all Reliable Druggists and in Roxbury by Riker-Jaynes and all Reliable Druggists.

HOW TO GAIN WEIGHT A POUND A DAY

"Stay-There" Fad May Be Added in Short Time.

Thin men and women who would like to increase their weight with 10 or 15 pounds of healthy "stay there" fat should try eating a little Sargol with their meals for a while and note results. Here is a good test worth trying. First weigh yourself and measure yourself. Then take Sargol—one tablet with every meal—for two weeks. Then weigh and measure again. It isn't a question of how you look or feel or what your friends say or think. The scales and the tape measure will tell their own story, and most any thin man or woman can easily add from five to eight pounds in the first fourteen days by following this simple direction. And, best of all, the new flesh stays put.

Sargol does not of itself make fat, but mixing with your food it does the fats, sugars and starches into the kind of fat you have often wished you had. This fat-producing nourishment for the tissues and nerves prepares it in an easily assimilated form which the blood can readily accept. All this nourishment now passes from your body as waste. But Sargol stops the waste and does it quickly and makes the fat-producing contents of the very same meals you are eating now form pounds and pounds of healthy flesh between your skin and bones. Sargol is safe, pleasant, effective and inexpensive. Riker-Jaynes and all Reliable Druggists in Boston and vicinity sell it in large boxes—forty tablets to a package—on a guarantee of weight increase or money back.

THIN FOLKS WHO WOULD BE FAT

Mal-Nutrition Causes Many Cases of Lack of Weight.

"I'd certainly give most anything to be able to fat up a few pounds and stay that way," declares every person, positively thin man or woman. Such a result is quite impossible, despite past failures. Thin people are victims of mal-nutrition, a condition which prevents the fatty elements of food from being taken up by the blood as they are when the powers of nutrition are normal. Instead of getting into the blood, all the fat and flesh producing elements stay in the intestines until they pass from the body as waste.

To correct this condition and to produce a healthy normal amount of fat the nutritive processes must be artificially supplied with the power which nature has denied them. This can best be accomplished by eating a Sargol tablet with every meal. Sargol is a scientific combination of six of the best strength-giving, fat-producing elements known to the medical profession. Taken with every meal, it aids the food just eaten in the sugars and starches into rich, ripe nourishment for the tissues and blood and its rapid effect is remarkable. Reported gains of from five to twenty pounds in a short time are by no means infrequent. Yet its action is perfectly natural and absolutely harmless. Sargol is sold by Riker-Jaynes and all Reliable Druggists everywhere and every package contains a guarantee of weight increase or money back.

Caution—While Sargol has produced remarkable results in the treatment of nervous, run-down and general stomach disorders it cannot be too strongly emphasized that nothing should be taken internally unless the user is not willing to increase their weight five pounds or more.

WHAT TO DO TO GET FAT AND INCREASE WEIGHT

Real Cause of Thinness Is Explained by Physicians.

Most thin people eat from four to six pounds of good solid fat-making food every day and still do not increase in weight one ounce, while on the other hand many of the plump, chunky folks eat very lightly and keep gaining all the time. We all know to say that this is the nature of the individual. It isn't Nature's way at all.

This folks may thin because their powers of assimilation are defective. They absorb not enough of the food they eat to make up for a condition of health and strength. Stuffing won't help them—they may eat a dozen meals a day and still remain a skeleton. "Stay there" pounds. All the fat-producing elements you eat are carried off in the intestines until they pass from the body as waste. What such people need is something that will prepare these fatty food elements so that their blood can absorb them and deposit them all over the body—something, too, that will modify their red blood corpuscles and increase their blood's carrying capacity.

For such a condition I always recommend Sargol, a Marie tablet with every meal, which, if not the same nature, a patented drug, but is a scientific combination of six of the most effective and concentrated flesh building elements known to pharmacy. It is absolutely harmless, yet wonderfully effective. I have had patients with each meal often has a single tablet increasing the weight of the body as much as from three to five pounds a week. Sargol is sold by Riker-Jaynes and all Reliable Druggists everywhere on a positive guarantee of weight increase or money back.

HOW THIN PEOPLE CAN PUT ON FLESH

Foolish Diets Entirely Avoided by This System.

Thin men and women—that big, hearty, filling dinner you ate last night. What became of all the fat-producing nourishment it contained? You haven't gained in weight one ounce. That food passed from your body like unburned coal thru an open grate. The material was there, but your food doesn't work and stick, and the plain truth is you hardly get enough nourishment from your meals to pay for the cost of cooking. This is true of thin folks the world over. Your nutritive organs, your functions of assimilation, are sadly out of gear and need reconstruction.

Cut out the foolish foods and fussy seeding diets. Quit the fool exercises. Cut out everything but the meals you are eating now and eat with every one of those a single Sargol Tablet. In two weeks note the difference. Pile on eight, good solid pounds of healthy, "stay there" fat should be the net result. Sargol, too, is the greatest blood and tissue builder in the world. Its easily assimilated form. This people often put on from 5 to 20 pounds in a month. Sargol tablets are small and pleasant to take. They come 40 tablets to a package and cost but a few cents a day. Sargol is sold by Riker-Jaynes and all Reliable Druggists everywhere on a positive guarantee of weight increase or money back.

AN EASY WAY TO GET FAT AND BE STRONG

Thin People Often Make Mistakes in Dosing Stomachs.

The trouble with most thin folks who wish to gain weight is that they insist on dosing their stomachs or stuffing it with greasy foods; rubbing on useless "flesh cream," or following some foolish physical culture stunt, while the real cause of thinness goes unchecked. You cannot get fat until your digestive tract assimilates the fat you eat.

Thanks to a remarkable new scientific discovery, it is now possible to combine into a single form the very elements needed by the digestive organs to help them assimilate fatty foods. This latest health discovery of modern chemistry is known as Sargol. When you have tried this simple, easily assimilated form, you will find that its regenerative, nourishment-power action is almost instant and harmless. Sargol gives to the fattening elements of your food and juices them so that they are easily digested, enriched, relished, broken down and taken of your body. You can see the result almost from the first day. This amazing transformation has taken place and you notice it on your cheeks fill out, hollows above your neck, shoulders and bust disappear and you begin to put on flesh in the form of solid, healthy flesh. Sargol is absolutely harmless, inexpensive, efficient.

SARGOL THE FLESH BUILDER

THIN FOR YEARS

"Gains 22 Pounds in 23 Days"

"I was all run down to the very bottom," writes F. Gagnon. "I had to quit work, I was so weak. Now, thanks to Sargol I look like a new man. I gained 22 pounds in 23 days."

"Sargol has put just 10 pounds on me in 14 days," states W. D. Roberts. "It has made me sleep well, enjoy what I ate, and enabled me to work with interest and pleasure."

"I weighed 132 pounds when I commenced taking Sargol. After taking 20 days I weighed 144 pounds. Sargol is the most wonderful preparation for flesh-building I have ever seen," declares D. Martin and J. Meier adds: "For the past twenty years I have taken medicine every day for indigestion and got thinner every year. I took Sargol for forty days and feel better than I have felt in twenty years. My weight has increased from 150 to 170 pounds."

When hundreds of men and women—and there are hundreds, with more coming every day—living in every nook and corner of this broad land, voluntarily testify to weight increases ranging all the way from 10 to 35 pounds given them by Sargol, you must admit, Mr. and Mrs. and Miss Thin Reader, that there must be something in this Sargol method of flesh-building after all.

Hadn't you better look into it, just as thousands of others have done? Many thin folks say: "I'd give most anything to put on a little extra weight," but when someone suggests a way they exclaim, "Not a chance. Nothing will make my plump. I'm built to stay thin." Until you have tried Sargol you do not and cannot know that this is true.

Sargol has put pounds of healthy "stay there" flesh on hundreds who doubted, and in spite of their doubts. You don't have to believe in Sargol to grow plump from its use. You just take it and watch weight pile up, hollows vanish and your figure round out to pleasing normal proportions. You weigh yourself when you begin and again when you finish, and you let the scales tell the story.

Sargol is absolutely harmless. It is a tiny concentrated tablet. You take one with every meal. It mixes with the food you eat for the purpose of separating all of its flesh-producing ingredients. It prepares these fat-making elements in an easily assimilated form, which the blood can readily absorb and carry all over your body. Plump, well-developed persons don't need Sargol to produce this result. Their assimilative machinery performs its functions without aid. But thin folks' assimilative organs do not. This fatty portion of their food now goes to waste through their bodies like unburned coal through an open grate. A few days' test of Sargol in your case will surely prove whether or not this is true of you. Isn't it worth trying?

If you want a beautiful and well-rounded figure of symmetrical proportions, if you want to gain some solid pounds of healthy, stay-there flesh, if you want to increase your weight to normal, weigh what you should weigh, go straight to your druggist to-day and get a package of Sargol and use it as directed. Sargol will either increase your weight or it won't, and the only way to know is to try it. A single package of Sargol easily enables you to make this test. Sixty days' use of Sargol, according to directions, is absolutely guaranteed to increase your weight to a satisfactory degree or your druggist will refund all the money you have paid him for it. Sargol is sold by leading druggists everywhere and in Boston and vicinity by Riker-Jaynes drug stores.

RIKER-JAYNES AND ALL RELIABLE DRUGGISTS

To People Who Are Losing Weight

Any unnatural loss of flesh and weight, even though gradual, should be regarded with alarm. Unless the result of actual illness it is a certain indication that the flesh and strength giving elements in your food are passing out of your body as waste instead of going to the blood where they belong. You can quickly correct this condition and with back from ten to thirty pounds of healthy, stay-there fat by eating a little Sargol with your meals.

To Regain Lost Flesh After Illness

It should be remembered that it is not so much what or how much you eat, but how much fat making nourishment your blood absorbs that will decide how quickly lost flesh and weight will return. By taking with every meal a single Sargol tablet you should regain lost flesh quickly. Sargol mixed with your blood extracts and prepares for the first time in street clothes the fats, sugar starches and flesh and to get fat. I get fat and then turned strength giving elements in your into real, solid flesh. Sargol aids digestion and your weight and want food and prepares them in a form to put on flesh you should see Sargol.

Geo. Johnson Gains 27 Pounds in Weight

When George Johnson of Boston, Mass., weighed but 151 pounds he began to eat Sargol with his meals. He writes: "Sargol is certainly all right. My weight at present in street clothes is 178 pounds. I will recommend Sargol to the first thin person who wants to put on flesh." Sargol is sold with a positive guarantee of weight increase or money back. Contains no alcohol or dangerous drugs.

RED SOX MAY TOP LEAGUE TONIGHT

CLEVELAND, July 13.—"We will be in first place before we leave Cleveland; we may be leading the procession by nightfall."

Such was Manager Bill Carrigan's enthusiastic announcement to the AMERICAN'S correspondent upon his arrival with his justly celebrated Boston outfit this morning.

The series commences with a double-header on Somers Field this afternoon.

Evidently Carrigan believes the Indians are set to get spanked twice, and if two Boston triumphs result the Hose will move into first place regardless of what transpires in the White Sox-Athletic battle in Chicago.

The Red Sox can assume command of the field if they only break even today's bargain day bill. That's providing the Mocking machine runs over the Rowlands.

Carrigan figures his club did mighty well to gain an even break in Detroit, owing to the fact that Ruth, Maya, Gregg, Shore and Leonard twirled so poorly, and his defense played such wobbly ball.

"The Tigers got us at the time we were playing our worst ball and still we broke even with them," said Carrigan. "I know we are going to beat out Jennings' club, and I've also got the hunch we will finish in front of the White Sox. I seldom brag, but am confident we will be in first place by the time we return home."

Wood and Ruth are the morning slab picks for Boston in the double-header. Lee Fohl announces he will make his selections from Mitchell, Coumbe and Walker.

BRAVES HOPE FOR CHANGE IN LUCK

By A. H. C. MITCHELL.

The winning streak, so long promised by the Braves, may get under way this afternoon.

A new shuffle of the baseball cards brings the Pittsburgh Pirates to Boston today and they will greet the Braves at Fenway Park in a double-header.

First game starts at 1:45 and the second (we hope) about 3:45, or sooner.

The Pirates are in about the same class as the St. Louis Cardinals from all appearances. Both the Cards and the Pirates believe they have a fine chance to win the pennant. But so do the Braves for that matter. We are reaching the stage where we say: "May the most hopeful team win!"

"No Hit" Davis appears to be the most likely candidate for box duty as far as the Braves are concerned. He warmed up yesterday with Tyler and looks to be ready for the word. Pat Ragan may be used in one of the games. The Pittsburgh box selections are hard to guess.

Moran Signs for Bout.

LONDON, July 13.—Frank Moran, the Pittsburgh fighter, and Gordon Sims, the English champion, today signed articles for a 20-round fight at a date to be decided later.

THE TRADERS.

Consider Jimmy Archer;
The scribes are trading him.
And yet those ball scribes, I surmise,
Are just the same old bunch of guys
Who traded Heine Zim.

Rumors of an impending sale of Jim Archer lead one to suspect that John McGraw has been shooting noxious gases into the Cub trenches.

Baseball fans in Philadelphia presented a gun to Eddie Collins. If it had been a .32 calibre gun Connie Mack would have filled the barrel with twenty-dollar gold pieces.

C. Mack emits the information that Schalk is a better catcher than Schang. We might add that Eddie Collins is a better base runner than Ping Bodie.

Charley Herzog is one of the most remarkable figures in baseball. He is trying to manage the Reds and the stockholders at the same time, and still manages to keep out of the out foundry.

Having gazed at several hundred thousand pictures of Barney Oldfield we are led to wonder whether he eats and sleeps with that cigar in his mouth.

Nationals Adopt 21-Man Rule

NEW YORK, July 13.—At a special meeting of the National League, the rule making the player limit 21 for each club, which has remained in abeyance since it was proposed last December, was unanimously adopted.

During the greater part of the session this rule was discussed by the club presidents, all of whom attended. No player under suspension will be included in the list of "disabled players," for whom other players can be substituted, but the rule was made elastic enough to enable a club not to be crippled through any members being injured or rendered incapable through illness.

A suspended player must be counted in the 21 limit, and the only recourse for a club in such a case is to appeal to the National Commission for his reinstatement.

BRAVES SIGN UP COAST PITCHER

The Braves have accepted the terms of Pitcher R. Schroeder, a free agent. He pitched several no-hit games for the Sacramento club in games on the Pacific coast and has been much sought after by big league clubs, among them being Detroit and the White Sox. He is a right-hander and stands 6 feet 1 inch, weighs about 185 pounds. He left Sacramento and will report to Manager Stallings in a few days.

Fletcher Low Reports.

Fletcher Low, Dartmouth's former shortstop, joined the Braves today. He was a whirlwind in college circles and Manager Stallings is confident the youngster will make his mark in fast company. Low hails from Essex.

FOR THE HOT DAYS
AND SLEEPLESS NIGHTS OF SUMMER

There is nothing so cooling, refreshing and restful as a glass of Fenway.

FENWAY LAGER with your meals instead of tea and coffee adds nourishment while it cools and refreshes. It drives away the tired feeling that comes with the Summer heat.

A glass of FENWAY ALE or Porter at bedtime banishes sleeplessness and promotes the restful slumber that strengthens and builds you up to do the tasks of the morrow.

It is the CHOICE MALT and SAAZER KREIS HOPS used in no other Boston beer that makes Fenway (The Beer Without a Substitute) a real body building, health promoting food beverage.

GREAT INTEREST IN $1,000 RACE

In order to be thoroughly covered in case of accident, Manager Sid Butler of the Revere cycle track has arranged to have six pacing machines for the $1,000 match race between Victor Linart and Leon Didier which is to be held at the beach oval tomorrow night.

The race will be ridden over a 25-mile course, and a mile will be allowed for a change of wheels in case of puncture or any other mechanical trouble that may arise. The contestants will draw for pacemakers.

With this arrangement the defeated man will have no excuses to offer.

The race has created considerable interest among the bike "fans," and with good weather a record-breaking crowd is sure to be on hand. Ever since Linart broke into the limelight this season he has been the cause for much discussion. Many contend that he is the greatest pace follower that has ever been seen at the Revere track, while others hold Didier as the best.

The match race grew out of this discussion Didier's friends advised him to challenge Linart. This the Frenchman did and posted $500 in good faith. The deft had no sooner been issued than Linart came right back with a reply and $500 to put against Didier's money. The men had no trouble in coming to terms and the race was on.

No Racing in Arkansas.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 13.—Finally disposing of the questions at issue in the Sawyer racing bill, the Supreme Court declared the act passed by the Legislature, which would have permitted racing under a state commission and pari mutuel betting in connection therewith, not a law. The Supreme Court upheld the decision of the Circuit Court, which ruled that Governor G. W. Hayes had vetoed the bill.

SIDELIGHTS on SPORTS By A·H·C·Mitchell

IT is easy to see that the Braves haven't their old punch. It is to be seen in a score of different ways. They go after bad balls frequently, something that we very rarely saw when they were mowing down their opponents last Fall.

If they could win the close games they might afford to wait for the batting punch, but they are not winning the close games. They are getting beaten by one run.

This lack of hitting ties them up on the bases. They are afraid to take a chance. They are playing as hard as they know how to play, in many respects, but the whole team realizes the hitting is poor and there is no doubt but that it affects their whole game.

ONE couldn't ask for much better pitching than the Braves' twirlers have been delivering lately. Both Tyler and Rudolph pitched winning games yesterday, yet they couldn't win. Let the boys begin to hit; let them come from behind and bat out a few games and it will make all the difference in the world to them.

In the meantime, all we can do is sit back and wait for a change of luck. Big Schmidt is back after a few days' layoff on account of an injured arm and no doubt the boys will feel more confidence now.

THERE was a noticeable difference in the amount of ginger displayed in the first and second games yesterday. The boys fought hard in the first game, but in the second, with Evers on second and Schmidt on first, there was enthusiasm as well as fighting.

Both Rudolph and Tyler pitched splendid ball. But the punch wasn't there when it came to getting men on bases and sending them home.

THE old Red Sox never give up the ship. There is a ruggedness about their play that has been particularly noticeable this season. Starting with their first game of the year at Fenway Park, when they beat the Athletics after what appeared to be a hopeless chase, they have come from behind many times. Yesterday, at Detroit, while they used nearly every pitcher they had, yet they stuck to it to the end and finally copped.

The Sox made an even thing of the series with the Tigers, which is a good record against a team that is fighting the leaders hard.

CARRIGAN and his men open in Cleveland this afternoon.

Some of the pitchers that worked yesterday at Detroit can be used again today. Doubtless Ruth will be sent against the Indians for a starter. He has been effective against them in earlier games. Carrigan's men are on a tough trip and have many games to play from now on.

UP at Fenway Park the Red Sox scoring board is watched closely and the fans cheer whenever Carrigan's men are ahead in much the same way they cheered the scores of the Braves last Fall.

W. A. PHELON, a well-known baseball writer of Cincinnati, prints the following in his paper:

"The baseball world in puzzled right now about the Braves. Are they down and out? Were they a lucky bluff last year? Or were they really a good ball club that collapsed much earlier than is the rule with championship teams? Will they repeat their 1914 performance by coming up through the rack with a rear and a rush, or are they doomed to stay down among the dead ones? Nobody knows, and the players differ greatly in their theories.

"Take any crowd of say, six athletes, and two of them will think the Braves had no real class last season, getting by because the other clubs didn't tend to business; two will hold that they were a great club, won on their merits, and deserved all they took; the remaining two will be non-committal as to the 1914 qualities of the Boston club, but will aver that they are all done now because their three crack pitchers aren't working properly and their second-string men will not do.

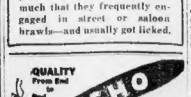
Seems Like a Lot of Money

When Jeffries and Johnson fought the gate receipts were $270,000. The Burns-Johnson match took in $150,000. Jeffries and Sharkey drew $66,000, and Jeffries and Corbett attracted $63,000.

All of which is why Jess Willard is the world's champion today. In his autobiography now running in the AMERICAN he tells tomorrow how fighting is a business with him. Says as soon as he makes enough money he is going to quit the ring.

There are also some interesting stories about other champions who loved fighting so much that they frequently engaged in street or saloon brawls—and usually got licked.



WHITE FAVORITE IN GO TONIGHT

OTHER BOUTS TONIGHT.

Ray Woods vs. Larry Burns at Biddeford, Me.

Johnny "Kid" Alberts vs. "Silent" Martin at New York.

Harry Pierce vs. Gene Moriarty at New York.

By JACK CONWAY.

"YOUNG" SAYLOR will try and stop Charley White's winning streak at the Atlas A. A. tonight. The Indianapolis man has quite an assignment and will have to travel at top speed if each of the twelve rounds if he is to avoid being hit by one of White's deadly left hand punches.

White rules a favorite in the betting for the evening's encounter. This is only natural as he is the logical opponent for Freddy Welsh, the world's lightweight champion. He has also engaged in three bouts in our fair town and he won each of them by a knockout. This is all the more reason why the "fans" should rate him very high.

The Chicago youth will receive a severe test tonight. He will be pitted against the classiest lightweight he has met in this city. Murphy, Lytle and Thomas were all easy for White, but it is not believed that he will have such a picnic in winning from Saylor. Saylor even goes so far as to state that White will receive a setback.

SAYLOR is not a stranger to the star men in the lightweight division. He has exchanged blows with most of the leading 133-135 pound boxing men and has made things mighty interesting for most of them. He is also well known in Boston as one of his tussles here with Battling Nelson, Jack Britton and Joe Mandot.

Ray Bronson, the former welterweigth star, is manager of Saylor. Bronson is experienced in the affairs of the ring and a shrewd handler of boxers. He does not believe that White has a chance to fatten his batting average at Saylor's expense. He asserted today that he believes Saylor will give White a rugged fight and that he has an excellent chance to win.

THE majority of local fistic lovers seem to expect a knockout every time that White enters a ring. The records, however, show that Charley has not had things all his own way when pitted against high class performers. We did not notice White handing any dream punches in his whirls with Freddy Welsh, Jack Britton, "Young" Shugrue, Jimmy Duffy and Leach Cross. Therefore it cannot very well be stated that White is certain to stop Saylor tonight. He may come through with a whirlwind slow inside of the limit, but then again friend Saylor may upset the Chicago fighter's plans.

JUST now White cannot very well afford to lose to Saylor as he is angling for a twenty-round decision bout with Welsh. Denver promoters are anxious to stage such a tussle. But if White should lose to Saylor, he would probably be unable to corner the champion.

Dan McDonald of Dorchester and George Robinson, the Cambridge boxer, should furnish a lively mixup in the semi-final skirmish of eight rounds. There will also be a couple of six round matches.

Schoolboy Crew May Enter the Nationals

Candidates for the scrub interscholastic eight, which is to take part in the people's regatta at Lynn on July 31, will report to Coach Manning at the B. A. A. boat house next Monday.

This crew will compete with an intermediate crew from the Farragut Boat Club which won the junior eight-oared event in the New England Amateur Rowing Association regatta on the Charles River July 5.

Coach Manning announced that if his charges made a good showing during the Lynn event and the boys are willing to continue with the oars, he will enter one and possibly two crews for the national regatta to be held at Springfield, August 13 and 14.

Gibson Uncovers New Ring Champion

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, July 13.—Billy Gibson, who brought out fighting Dick Hyland, has another promising lightweight under his management, who will shortly be seen in a bout in this city. Gibson's new fighter is Young Neil, champion of Pennsylvania. Jimmy Johnson has promised Neil a match with the winner of the Azevedo-Grumman bout.

LEVINSKY SIGNS FOR M'VEY BOUT

By International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, July 13.—By way of showing his contempt for the big ones, Battling Levinsky has signed up to meet Sam McVey for six rounds in an open-air bout to be held at the ball park here. Jack McGuigan is putting on the show. The little giant killer has bitten off quite a chew in signing with Dusky Sam.

Rockland Day at Fenway Park, Aug. 3

Rockland day will be celebrated at Fenway Park on August 3, if the decision of the meeting held at Rockland for the purpose of rooting for the Red Sox against the Detroit Tigers is acceptable to President Lannin. It was decided to engage a special train. The rooters on arriving at Boston will march behind a band to the baseball grounds. J. Frank Gardner was chosen president; Dr. John R. McIntosh, secretary, and M. Emmet Sullivan, treasurer. An additional committee of fifty will be named for the purpose of perfecting the minor details.

Put your taste to the test!

Camel Cigarettes have a subtle flavor—unique but enticingly attractive—because they are a blend of choice Turkish and choice Domestic tobaccos. Quality and the blend produce a smoke that's remarkably smooth, fragrant and satisfying.

Camel Cigarettes appeal best when submitted to comparison with brands men think they prefer. Smoke them liberally without tongue-bite, parched throat or any unpleasant cigaretty after-taste.

Camels will not tire the taste, and you'll like them better than either kind of tobaccos smoked straight. They are mild, yet have fine "body." They're a 100 percent quality smoke; that's why you won't find premiums or coupons with Camels.

Put your taste to the test today!

Camels sell 20 for 10c. If your dealer can't supply you, send 10c for one package or $1.00 for a carton of ten packages (200 cigarettes), sent postage prepaid. If after smoking one package you are not delighted with Camels, return the other nine packages and we will refund your dollar and postage.

LAWSON DENIED NEW MURDER TRIAL

TRINIDAD, Col., July 13.—John R. Lawson, labor leader, convicted of murder in connection with the strike disorders, has been denied a new trial by Judge Granby Hillyer. He was sentenced at Hillyer's direction to state penitentiary.

Lawson read a lengthy statement in which he maintained his innocence, charged that he had been made the victim of "an unprincipled conflict of prosecution" and alleged that his trial had been a travesty on justice.

With a few remarks to the defendant, Judge Hillyer pronounced sentence.

Lawson said in part:

"In the name of the country of my country, which I respect, I protest against your right to pass any judgment on me. It is a travesty on justice that you were appointed to the bench this spring for the trial of myself and my associates. Fresh from the employment of the coal operators in Colorado, including John Rockefellers, who have engineered these prosecutions, yourself a coal company attorney, you were so prejudiced against me that my case in this court was a travesty on justice. The Supreme Court of Colorado in Denver is now reviewing your conduct."

Lawson charged that he had been "the victim of a hand-picked jury, and with lips that trembled concluded:

"Statements facing iron bars and prison walls, I assert my love for justice and my faith in its ultimate triumph."

TODAY'S STOCK MARKET

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks opened higher and more active than for some time in New York, where Bethlehem Steel and General Motors touched new high prices. In Boston, where prices ranged higher but business was of moderate volume only, American Zinc sold at 58¾, a new high. While copper production records in this country have been broken this year, it is said the demand has been sufficient to prevent accumulation. Spot price Western spelter sold yesterday around 23 cents a pound, a recovery within a brief period of about six cents. As warm weather is needed for crops the rain in the middle of this morning was encouraging to bulls.

Foreign liquidation seems to have diminished, or at least did not appear to be a factor in early trading. There is a better undertone all around. There was more hope that international difficulties will be amicably adjusted. For people close to Washington even a severance of diplomatic relations with Germany, that more goods are being moved in this country and Canada is indicated by the report of the American Railway Association that in June the net surplus of idle cars in those countries decreased 24,727. The steel trade showed great improvement. For several weeks, it is said, the U. S. Steel corporation has been receiving orders at the rate of 5,000 tons a day. This is three times as much new business as came in in January and twice as much as it did in February, March, April and May. There was no appreciable change in the foreign exchange situation this morning. Although large orders were up in New York, they continue to decline in London.

JESS WILLARD TELLS HOW HE PLAYED SANTA CLAUS

By JESS WILLARD.

(Copyright, 1915, by A. Merritt. All Rights Reserved.)

WHEN I was in New York the first time, I used to look out for free lectures and free meetings. I had lots of evenings, but no money. One night I dropped into a Cooper Union meeting where a fellow was telling poor people how to be happy though hungry.

"Money means everything," he said. "People think too much about it. Money can't buy happiness."

"No," yelled a man in the crowd, "but if you've got it you can move away from misery."

Take it from me it's the truth. I've never been down and out, but there's been times I'd dare-starved, looked mighty bad for me and the family. And whenever I hear some fat millionaire kicking that's just the thing it is to be poor, I feel like walking up and giving him a beating.

As long as I live I'll never forget Christmas Day, 1913. It was the first time in my life I saw REAL poverty and it's almost more than I can stand to see. I had been spending the day in the East Side tenement district. Honest, I saw things that hurt me so I just had a knife cut hurt the hand.

This was a week or so before about. After my battle with Carl Morris, I had to go up to Buffalo to keep my agreement with Fireman Frank Davis. I was to get 20 per cent. of the gate receipts and I figured out that they'd amount to anything at all.

You see, Davis had been knocked out in one round by Soldier Kearns, and I'd put the Soldier to sleep for in eight rounds. I thought sure it would kill Davis as a card in Buffalo.

But the fight fans in that town brushed the Kearns fight by as an accident. They were crazy about Davis, for up to the Kearns fight he had been a Canadian champion and one to round. And I guess there's no doubt that he lost to the Soldier by a lucky punch.

Anyway, the house was packed, and my share of the receipts was $1,700. It was the biggest purse I had ever won, and it certainly looked like Santa Claus to me. I was able to send a big wad home to the family, so that there'd be a Christmas tree for the kids and presents all round.

I was just about forgetting to say that I put Davis away in the second round. He was a good man but his open, rushing style of fighting just suited me. He fairly ran into my fights and got money it pretty hard to start with.

He was out two or three minutes, and until I saw his eyes open I was scared. But he came to without a headache or a bad memory. Still a knockout doesn't amount to anything when a man's heart is all right.

You can imagine I felt good after the fight. A lot of money to send home, and some left in my pocket. So I started on Christmas Day with a feeling that I'd like to be Santa Claus to some kid. I asked a policeman where the poorest people in New York lived, and after thinking it over for a while he sent me over to a place called Rivington street.

I hope he was right. I'd hate to think that there were any poorer people in the world than I saw that day, but I don't think I saw a good, warm overcoat anywhere. All the faces of men, women and children had a whitish, bluish look, even though most of them stood around along under huge bundles of clothing that ought to have made them sweat.

I asked a policeman what they were doing with the bundles. "They're home finishers," he said. "They get the clothes from contractors and take 'em home to put in the linings, work buttonholes and things like that."

I had my pockets full of bags of candy, and I tried to stop some of the kids as I went through. But I scared them to death. Reckon they thought I was going to kidnap them. So at last I picked out a pouch of three little tads—two girls and a boy—and followed them.

They went into a big tenement building, and I followed them up the dark stairs. When they had got inside their doors, I knocked. There was quite a scuffling inside, and at last the door was opened by an old fellow with long, black curly whiskers.

I never expect to see such a hole as that was. There was only a light in the room came from one window that opened on an air shaft that wasn't a very big room, but there were fourteen people in it by actual count.

The men were working at machines, and the women were sitting away with needles. The bigger boys and girls were making button holes, and the little kids were busy pulling out basting. The only one in the room not working was a wee mite of a thing about a year old that lay on top of a pile of pants.

My coming in at the door seemed to throw an awful scare into them. I couldn't make out why for a minute or so, and then I got on. They thought I was an inspector coming around to see if anybody had a "catchy disease."

It took me a mighty long time to make them understand that I wasn't an inspector and that I didn't mean them any harm. About the only one that spoke English at all good was a girl of fourteen or thereabouts.

"It's Christmas," I said over and over. "I'm just bumming around with some candy in my pockets for the kids."

I took it out and handed it around and grinned as hard as I could. All of a sudden they got me.

"Oh, ja, ja!" they jabbered, and a lot of other stuff I could not get. "Kriss Kringle! Kriss Kringle."

"That's it," I said. "I'm a sort of Santa Claus."

I got out all my candy and emptied it around, and then I flashed up all my small change and divided it among the kids. They knew money like they didn't know candy. I'm telling you that I don't believe any of that bunch of kids had ever tasted candy before.

The mother started in to crying and said something about her Tannenbaum. I figured out she meant Christmas tree—the little girl used to have when she was a little girl in the old country. Anyway the father went over and put his arms around her and I never saw a more touching scene come into a tenement.

They gave me a chair and all of us tried to talk, but the little girl and I were about the only ones that got anywhere. I did manage to find out that the men and women earned about ten cents an hour while the kids were lucky to make three or four cents an hour.

"Pants better than flowers," the girl explained, and I used to make violets. I've had earnings more than two cents an hour on flowers."

No wonder all that family had to work morning, noon and night. No wonder they had no live and eat and sleep in one room and take in boarders to help out the rent.

I took a good slice at the clothes. They weren't cheap clothes, by any means. And I could just see some swell putting them on, and never knowing that they had been in a tenement room and worked over by babies.

One of the women was coughing all the time I was there, and there's a doubt that she had consumption. How any of them keep from being sick it beats me. The air was awful, for the one window was shut down tight to keep out the cold.

There was no fire and no heat, and the only warmth they got was from their bundles packed together in that hole of a room. I tell you I never came so near crying as when I looked at those poor little kids cheated out of their chance to grow up to be strong, healthy men and women.

"Do you go to school?" I asked the girl.

"Not me," she said. "I'm fourteen. I'm working age. My brudder and my sister, they go."

I found out, however, that little brother and little sister have to help mind the baby and run errands and thread needles all the time they're not at school. That means early in the morning and late into the night.

"Yes," the girl admitted. "They sleeps in school. They're learn quicks."

How can they learn anything at all? They don't get enough to eat, they don't get enough sleep, they live cooped up in an unhealthy way, a farmer wouldn't keep hogs in, and they strain their eyes and bend their backs until they haven't got any health left.

I didn't stay long. I could see that they wanted to get back to work. It was Christmas Day, but it was just one of them as any other day. And I couldn't stand it any more. I was getting sore and sick and the sight of these poor wretched human beings made my heart ache.

But I went away from that place with a lot of new ideas. I'm proud of being an American, but there's more to patriotism than just singing "America" and cheering the flag. We've got to wipe out such hell holes as I saw that Christmas, and we've got to fix it so that men, women and children won't have to live worse than animals.

(Tomorrow Willard will tell the money that fighters make, and talk about championship purses.)

Pittsburgh Censors 'Risque' Magazines

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 13.—Magazines with "risque" short stories and novelettes will be barred hereafter in Pittsburgh, according to Director of Public Safety Charles Hubbard.

The director announced the establishment of a censorship bureau of literary censorship and the appointment of four female censors who shall have the right to "blue pencil" them. They will be ordered to visit all of the book shops and stands and report if any magazines contain stories that may be classified as objectionable under the order.

OUR FIRST DUTY IS TO MAINTAIN PEACE; OUR NEXT DUTY IS TO PREPARE FOR WAR

Insist Upon All Rights, and Only Upon Rights

MUCH of the comment upon the notes exchanged between Washington and Berlin is anything but to the point. The real issues are simple enough.

A German submarine discharged a torpedo against the United States merchant ship Nebraskan.

A German aeroplane threw bombs down upon the United States vessel Cushing.

A German submarine torpedoed and sank the British ship Lusitania, with the loss of many American lives.

Our government protested against these three acts as being illegal under the laws of maritime warfare and as derogatory to the sovereignty and neutrality of the United States.

It demanded satisfaction for the assaults upon the American ships.

It demanded that Germany cease to sink merchant vessels of either neutral or hostile nations without first visiting and searching them and removing their passengers and crews to safety.

The German government promptly rendered apology and satisfaction for the attacks upon the two American ships.

The German government refuses to acknowledge that the sinking of the Lusitania was an unlawful act, and refuses to agree that its submarine crews will visit and search British or other enemy ships before sinking them.

The German government offers the fullest guarantees that American ships, or any neutral ships which the American government may authorize to fly the American flag, will not be molested in voyaging to France, Italy, Great Britain—the American government to see that such ships do not carry unlawful cargoes.

The sole point at issue, then, is whether Germany's submarine warfare against the ships of her enemies is a matter subject to the dictation of a neutral nation or a matter for Germany to decide.

Obviously, the fact that citizens of neutral nations voyaging on enemy ships have been killed, or may be killed, has nothing to do with the legal aspects of the case.

If it is lawful for German submarines to sink enemy ships without previous visit and search, then citizens of neutral nations who voyage on such ships do so at their own peril and waive any rights of protection by their governments.

That is an elemental truth and needs no argument.

So the question stands this way:

Have German submarines a lawful right to sink the merchant ships of hostile nations without previous visit, search and removal of passengers and crews?

If such action is permissible under international laws of sea warfare, then our government assumed an untenable position when it undertook to compel Germany to cease its submarine warfare upon Great Britain's commerce.

If such submarine attacks are illegal under the international rules of sea warfare, then the sinking of British ships on which Americans are voyaging becomes a just cause of remonstrance, and, under certain eventualities, a just excuse for the use of force.

The difficulty in a fair discussion of this issue arises at the very threshold. Nobody knows what the rules of international law governing submarine warfare are, because submarine warfare is so recent that international law has no rules concerning it.

The rules of international law governing ordinary sea warfare are indefinite enough, for the reason that the Declaration of London, which sought to define them and to protect innocent passengers on merchant vessels, failed of ratification by the British government, although the German government expressed a willingness to ratify it and abide by it.

The rules of international law governing submarine warfare remain wholly to be formulated at some future conference. Neither the Declarations of The Hague, of Paris or of London cover the points in dispute.

Now, obviously, no conference of the Powers to establish international rules of submarine warfare can possibly be held until this war is over.

And obviously, too, no single nation such as our own can formulate in advance of such a general conference an entirely new section of maritime law which would be in any sense international.

Such a declaration by one nation might bind it, but it cannot have the force of international law to bind nations which had no part in making the declaration.

The humanities or inhumanities of any specific case have no vital relation to the matter.

All warfare is inhumane. All war is waged to maim and to kill and to destroy. The mere inhumanity of sinking an unarmed British ship is no more our lawful diplomatic concern than the inhumanity of Germans and Britons killing each other by the thousands with high explosives, gas, liquid fire, incendiary bombs or any other of the cruel and unusual methods of slaughter which both sides have used to the limit of their resources.

Diplomatically, we have to do only with the legal aspect of warfare which may result in killing American citizens or destroying American property, and unless we can show that any specific act of warfare is contrary to international law, the incidental killing of American citizens or destruction of American property is not a matter for which we can justly call either combatant to account.

Neutral citizens have no other rights in war zones than their natural rights, subject to the risks and perils of warfare.

The contention of the AMERICAN from the first was that this government should demand ALL its neutral rights from ALL combatants, and nothing but its neutral rights from ANY combatant.

Our right and our duty to call Germany to account for attacks upon American commerce and all well-defined American rights of life and property were clear enough.

Our duty to call Great Britain to account for all attacks or interference directed at our commerce or upon any American rights of life or property is generally clear.

We did not and have not called Great Britain to sufficiently sharp account for numerous aggressions and injuries illegally inflicted upon American commerce.

Insist Upon All Rights, and Only Upon Rights

We have called Germany sharply and properly to account for injuries inflicted upon American commerce, and Germany has made reparation and has promised to cease those attacks.

In going beyond demands for reparation for injuries to American commerce and demanding that Germany cease to attack British commerce, except under regulations laid down by the American government, we have assumed a difficult position and made demands to which it was not at all probable that Germany would submit.

Had the situation been reversed, had we been at war with Great Britain, had American submarines been sinking hostile British ships, and had Germany demanded that we cease our submarine warfare unless we continued it under rules laid down by the German Kaiser, we imagine that the indignation in this country over such a demand by Germany would have been satisfied with nothing short of an instant declaration of war.

What is needed in the discussion of foreign relations just now is less partisanship and more understanding of the law and the facts, coupled with the resolve on the part of our government to act fairly and justly, not only toward Germany, not only toward England and the other warring nations, but toward the people of our own country, who do not wish to be embroiled unnecessarily with any other power.

We have to live in the same world with all these peoples when the war is over, and justice, prudence and common sense all dictate that we treat them all alike, with an impartial friendliness and unimpeachable neutrality while the war is going on.

This country cannot maintain its rights too vigorously against Germany.

The American people will justify and sustain the administration in the most vigorous assertion of American rights against Germany or against any other nation which transgresses upon those rights.

But the American people do not for one moment desire that this nation be plunged in war or led into any difficult and possibly humiliating diplomatic complications by going beyond the assertion of our undeniable rights.

The American people are neither allies of Germany nor of Great Britain.

We Americans are a great neutral people, a powerful and peaceable and self-respecting nation, which demands only its rights and will maintain its rights against Kaiser or King, against Germany, against Great Britain, against any Power or any combination of Powers, to the limit of its resources.

We fear nobody but God.

Our fathers maintained the honor and dignity of the republic impartially against all foes, and so will their sons, if need arise to defend that dignity and that honor.

But we seek no needless quarrel with any nation.

We welcome friendship and peace with every nation as long as friendship and peace can be maintained with stainless honor.

Above all things, it is the heart's desire of all true Americans that the government of the republic conduct itself with righteousness, justice, fairness and honorable prudence in the difficult emergencies and embarrassments of these troubled times.

Mr. Hearst stated the whole matter clearly in his signed editorial in this paper on June 7, advising that our protests be confined to the cases of American ships and to infractions of indisputable American rights, in the following words:

"Immunity for neutral ships and cargoes, inviolability for neutral rights, must be conceded and maintained both by Germany and England, by Teutons and allies alike, must be demanded and enforced by the United States, or by the United States in conjunction with other neutral Powers.

"If the President in his coming rejoinder to Germany shall place himself upon this impregnable position, and shall hold himself rigidly aloof from the debatable grounds of controversy between the nations, there can be no possible answer forthcoming save complete German acquiescence to our demands.

"A note thus wisely confined to the assertion of American rights alone will insure the continuance of our present peace.

"We are gaining advantage by peace; we are securing every benefit by not being involved in this murderous and devasting war; our sons are safe; our fields are fruitful; our vaults are filled with the gold sent us by the warring nations, and our factories are busy supplying European nations with their needs. We should not end all this and plunge into this European turmoil, where our sons will be slain and our wealth exhausted, unless there be patriotic necessity for such a course.

"LET US STAND FIRMLY IN DEFENCE OF OUR JUST RIGHTS, EVEN THOUGH WE MUST MAINTAIN THEM BY FORCE OF ARMS, BUT LET US NOT PRECIPITATE THE COUNTRY INTO AN UNNECESSARY WAR BY GOING BEYOND OUR OWN RIGHTS AND DEMANDING THE PRIVILEGE OF DICTATING TO FOREIGN COUNTRIES IN MATTERS WHICH HAVE NOT YET RECEIVED THE DEFINITION AND SANCTION OF INTERNATIONAL LAW."

Once-Overs

Employers make a mistake when they treat the men working for them in a way to indicate that they consider them their inferiors.

There are many ways of giving instructions without using a time and a place and a manner which may antagonize the man you want to teach.

In many instances the employe may possess more real ability, more business sense, than his employer, and a patronizing manner used by the head of the firm will never get the best results out of him.

Some time in the future an employer may be glad to accept a place under a former employe, or the man who is working for him now may be his competitor tomorrow.

A Creed

By Jane McLean

SOMETIMES we realize Life has a way
Of yielding royally to us today.
What she withholds tomorrow, and we strain
To read her ultimatum, joy or pain.
How high she holds the hour glass in her hand,
It matters little what we understand
When weightier moves than ours of love or hate
Life throws the dice for, gambling with Fate.
And so when we have Joy, 'tis wise to feel
That certainty of her will soon reveal
The wall of shadows, why not welcome pain.
And boast not of a joy that's soon to wane.
